THE ROLLS-ROYCE SILVER CLOUD II—$15,655 P.O.E.

Should every corporation buy its president a Rolls-Royce?

There is much to be said for it. It is a prudent investment. It enhances the public image of the company. And rank is entitled to its rewards.

A GREAT MANY of the Rolls-Royce and Bentley cars sold in England are sold to companies for the use of their top executives. "Take a Rolls-Royce or Bentley into partnership," is a saying well observed by British businessmen.

What makes the Rolls-Royce the best executive car in the world? Consider these facts:

Long-range economy

A good part of the cost can often be written off in five years or less.

The car will then be in the infancy of its usefulness. You can sell it for a good price or continue to drive it for many more years.

The Rolls-Royce obviates the extravagant practice of trading in cars frequently for later models. This costs you money each time a change is made. With the money that is wasted in a few such transactions, the company could have bought a Rolls-Royce.

No "planned obsolescence"

The owner of a Rolls-Royce is not threatened by annual style changes. Only an expert can tell whether it was bought yesterday or five years ago. The Rolls-Royce people do not practice a cynical and self-serving policy of "planned obsolescence."

Operating costs are no higher than with any other powerful car.

Maintenance is minimal. With

Rolls-Royce dealers throughout the country, service is no problem.

Your president will live longer

Send the Rolls-Royce to fetch your president from his home every morning; he will reach the office in better shape. During the day, emancipate him from waiting for taxis on street corners. At night, send him home in the Rolls-Royce—he can do his homework, or take a nap. Do these things, and your president will be a better president. He will also live longer.

A safe car

On bad roads, or in heavy traffic, the Rolls-Royce can be handled like a sports car. It will not normally be so driven. But such driving shows the great ability of the vehicle to cope with critical circumstances.

The brakes have no equal in the world. There are three independent linkages. Should one fail (an unlikely event), the others will keep the car under control. "We would never produce a car that would outperform its brakes," says a Rolls-Royce engineer.

Free from exhibitionism

An executive's car, like his office, undoubtedly influences public opinion toward his company. The Rolls-Royce implies taste, conservatism and a regard for quality. Of all luxury cars, it is the least exhibitionistic.

A source of contentment

There is satisfaction in owning such an exquisite piece of machinery. To handle a Rolls-Royce, to look at it, even to smell its leather, are pleasures which the executive of a successful company should not be denied.

Those presidents who feel diffident about driving a Rolls-Royce can be provided with a Bentley. It is exactly the same car, except for the radiator. It costs $300 less.

If you would like more information, write Rolls-Royce, Inc., 45 Rockefeller Plaza, New York 20. If you are interested in taking a demonstration drive in a Rolls-Royce or Bentley, get in touch with the dealer listed below.

IMPERIAL

IMPERIAL DIVISION OF CHRYSLER CORPORATION

Unmatched luxury...unexpected liveliness

Even in its most dignified formal portrait, the innate verve and buoyancy of Imperial is still excitingly apparent.

And when you sit in it (as the most comfortable passenger in the world), you feel something a lot more stirring than the quiet sense of well-being great luxury usually invokes.

The reason: Imperial's luxury never obscures the engineering boldness that has made this one of the world's great road cars. A torsion-bar suspension, the most powerful engine in the fine car class, the most responsive transmission, an alternator capable of generating current even at "idle"—they're as vital to Imperial's automotive excellence as its carefully fitted fabrics and leathers, its deep carpets, its soft foam seats.

If you rather doubt that a car can be both stately and stimulating, your Imperial dealer will escort you to the driver's seat, and you can show yourself exactly how it's done.

MIAMI SOCIAL SEASON SPECTACULAR

By MARTHA LUMMUS

BRILLIANT PRESENTATION of the opera "Andrea Chenier," in Dade County during January, with Madame Renata Rebaldi in her first operatic appearance in Miami for two performances in Dade County Auditorium and one in Miami Beach Auditorium, was a fitting climax and an example of glorious achievement to twenty years effort on the part of the Opera Guild of Miami in bringing culture to Miami, as well as to the dedicated work of Dr. Arturo diFilippi (Mr. Opera Music of Miami) during this two decade period.

Giving a note of official sanction to the January 23 performance of "Andrea Chenier" and to the Twentieth Anniversary of Opera in Miami, was the appearance on stage of Mayor Robert King High of Miami to present a key to the city to Madame Rebaldi, and a similar key, made into a tie clasp, to Arturo diFilippi, in recognition of his tremendously successful efforts in bringing opera to Miami.

Mrs. Charles Moon, ardent worker for the Opera Guild since its inception, narrated the story of "Andrea Chenier" before curtain time on opening night.

Spectacular in every way were all three performances of the opera, and star-studded, both on stage and in the audience. Kathryn Grayson was among celebrities attending the premiere performance. The performances reflected without doubt the degree of progress and perfection to which opera has soared in Miami. And again was this evident when coloratura Roberta Peters sang in "Martha" Feb-February 20th in Dade County Auditorium, February 22nd at the Beach location, with a reappearance to be held at Dade Auditorium on February 25th.

However, not even the exquisite sets of these productions, which glittered and sparkled almost as much as a performance at New York's Met, surpassed in magnificence the elegance of the annual Opera Ball. Chair- maned by Mrs. James Gerity Jr., Mrs. Nelson Swift Morris and Mrs. George Menninger, and held at the fabulous Fontainebleau Hotel on January 27th, nothing was spared to make this one of the outstanding occasions of the entire Winter season for music-lovers and members of South Florida's social set.

Elegance even started with the unusual invitations — handpainted by the famous French artist Pierre Noyelle. Mrs. Morris was responsible for talking the artist into doing the paintings on the front and back covers of the invitations. Both paintings are in color — one illustrating the opera "Andrea Chenier" and the other, "Martha."

But by no means do the above festivities, fantastic as they are, represent all of the events connected with this year's Twentieth Anniversary of Opera in Miami. The Opera

Charles H. Anderson

Indies House, Duck Key, Florida was the spot for Robert Forest's party. He is a regular around the Duck Key resort. Left to right are Jack Barber of Jacksonville, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Forest, Mrs. L. C. McIver and Mrs. Elizabeth McIver, both of Jacksonville.

Guild's "All-Star" luncheon February 23rd at the Surf Club, an event chairmaned by Mrs. Neil Miller, Mrs. W. George Kennedy and John Astor, was to have opera stars and persons who "star" in the social season in South Florida, mingling in gay, festive mood for this anniversary party.

A special matinee performance of "Martha" will be presented at Dade County Auditorium Saturday, February 26th, at 2:30 p.m. at reduced prices to enable everyone in the area to attend.

In the pink, with pink a favorite fashion color, to match the pink-plumaged flamingoes in the infield, was Hialeah Race track on opening day when prominent personalities from near and far assembled for this important occasion which traditionally marks the beginning of the height of the South Florida Winter season.

The track was fast on opening day and so were the thoroughbreds, but none could match the speed records of Mr. and Mrs. Laddie Sanford of Palm Beach, who jetted down for the occasion. Admittedly a little like taking a taxi to cross the street, Mary Sanford was excited about the procedure, her first jet ride. The Sanfords, along with six guests, boarded the private jet plane of their Gold Coast neighbor and friend, Mrs. Abercrombie Robinson for the sixty miles to Hialeah for luncheon and a day at the races. Joining the Sanfords and Mrs. Robinson for the event were Dr. John Lee of Philadelphia and John Munroe of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Cressman and Mrs. Frank McMahon of Canada.

Mrs. Elizabeth N. Graham (Elizabeth Arden) was among celebrities attending Hialeah on opening day, as was Max H. Gluck, former U.S. Ambassador to Ceylon and Spain.

Typical of the architectural excellence and landscaping beauty to be found within the protective walls of the Sun & Surf Club is this striking residence. Embracing the full advantage of Florida's wonderful indoor-outdoor living, the lovely homes in the Club area are completely custom-designed and built to your own particular requirements. And you are always assured of complete freedom from the burdens of maintenance... at home or away!

As unique in comfort and convenience as is home ownership in the Sun & Surf Club, there are many who prefer the exclusive advantages of apartment-style living. You may be one of these. If so, you will have a decided interest in one of the most ideal co-operative apartment offerings along the entire Florida Gold Coast.

The architectural design is such that each apartment is virtually an island of privacy with its own "front yard"—a terrace as large as the spacious living room itself. And always a view of Ocean or Waterway!

A completely new concept in carefree contemporary living...

It is hard to conceive that there exists such an ideal way of living. If you have an inkling that there might be, we suggest you compare it with the Boca Raton Sun & Surf Club—feature by feature. Send the coupon today!

"Soiree Symphonique," a name as dulcet in sound as the strains of the University of Miami's Symphony Orchestra, which the soiree benefits, was the title given to the annual Symphony Ball at the Fontainebleau Hotel, Miami Beach, and which lived up to its previous reputation as one of the most elaborate and well attended events of the Winter season. A setting more picturesque or more in keeping with the theme of the ball, could never be found than the crystal-chandeliered Grand Ballroom of the Fontainebleau Hotel, and no wonder Chairmen Mrs. Robert Z. Greene and Mrs. William H. Stubblefield chose such a location as background for the exquisitely colorful gowns worn by the fashionably attired feminine guests.

Adding even more glamour to the already glamour filled occasion was the appearance of Dorothy Kirsten, famed Met singer, as a special guest.

Invitations to the Symphony Ball were the talk of the town, too — among the most elaborate seen here so far. Quite large (large enough to take more than usual postage, an outstanding feature even among the mass of holiday greetings with which they competed), they took the form of a door. The top two panels were portraits of Dr. J.F.W. Pearson, president of the University of Miami, and Dr. Fabien Sevitzky, conductor of the symphony orchestra. versity. Open the doors (of the invitation) and you saw all the people whirling about a ballroom.

Seated together at one table at the ball were members of the Allegro Guild, newest group formed to aid the Symphony Orchestra. The group is planning a Summer junket to Europe. Members of the travel committee of the Allegro Guild are Mrs. Lee Gilbert, Mrs. Burt Hunter, Mrs. Bob Kelley and Mrs. Paul Martin.

The Howard Cummings, recently back from a skiing trip in Switzerland, timed their arrival home to coincide with the Symphony Ball, sponsors of which are the Symphony Club which Mrs. Cummings heads. Assisting the chairman in making the ball a success were the following committee members: Mrs. Sailing W. Baruch, Mrs. Robert Butler, Mrs. Ben Cohen, Mrs. E. L. Cotton, Mrs. Baron de Hirsch Meyer, Mrs. Arthur Friedman, Mrs. James Gerity Jr., Mrs. Nathan Bumenick, Mrs. Paul Hexter, Mrs. W. Clyde Jennings, Mrs. William Kappel, Mrs. Charles Curtis King, Mrs. Philip Mallory, Mrs. P. B. Mangus, Mrs. William D. Pawley, Miss Evelyn Mitchell, Mrs. John B. Reid, Mrs. Harry Simone, Mrs. L. B. Smith, Mrs. Edward L. Taylor, Mrs. Louis E. Wolfson, Mrs. Mitchell Wolfson.

A unique inaugural took place on JFK inauguration day, January twentieth. But instead of Washington, it was in Miami, and it was a fashion luncheon (the first) at Indian Creek Country Club, to benefit the Florence Crittenton Home of Dade County. The beautiful Mrs. Juan Salleras of Miami Beach was general chairman. This was the first time the exclusive Miami Beach club had opened its doors to a fashion show of this kind. Around the clock fashions were presented to the large gathering, some of whom were Mrs. Robert P. Kelley, Mrs. John D. Simmons, Mrs. James Dayle and Mrs. Peter Herig.

Annual St. Francis Hospital dinner dance, underwritten each year by Fred B. Snite and this year celebrating its Tenth Anniversary, lived up to expectations—in number of guests attending and in lavishness. Staged each year at the Surf Club and one of the oldest of all charity balls in the area, it was chairmanned for the second year by Mrs. Leo Edwards. The ball annually attracts some seven hundred guests.

Art Linkletter in person was here for the ball given by the National Ladies Auxiliary of the Damon Runyon Foundation on February fifteenth at the Fontainebleau Hotel. Mrs. Robert Greene is chairman of the Damon Runyon Auxiliary, and she was assisted with ball plans by Mrs. P. B. Mangus, Mrs. Ben Cohen and Miss Evelyn Mitchell. Val Ernie's Orchesra was flown down from New York for the brilliant event which is new to charity balls at Miami Beach.

New, and highly successful, was the method used by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sykes to seat their two hundred guests when they entertained recently at a festive dinner dance at the Surf Club. Guests found themselves seated alphabetically—ladies on one side of the table, and men on the other. A touch of lavender was the color theme of the party, a color the hostess combined with lime green in her frock. Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fleming of Charlotte, N. C., Summer neighbors of the hosts in Blowing Rock, N. C., The Tony Gockings didn't have to "meet" the out of town honor guests as the Golden Beach Winter residents have known them both in Charlotte and in the North Carolina mountains where the Gockings have a home in Highlands.

Friday, January thirteenth was a lucky day for Mr. and Mrs. David Schine, for on that day their son was born at St. Francis Hospital, Miami Beach. The Schines have a daughter, 18-month old Vidette. Mrs. Schine is a former "Miss Universe."

Friday thirteenth also was a lucky day for Mrs. Mae Best and Mrs. Ray Heslop, as well as the several hundred guests they entertained at a dinner dance at the Surf Club. Guests walked under a ladder to enter the party, and a "black cat" presented them with a good luck rabbit's foot.

Among guests was George Ritter, president of the Surf Club, just recuperated from an illness. Mr. and Mrs. Lino Sertel were making one of their rare party appearances, and so was Mrs. Neil Miller, who has been missing most of the season's social fetes due to the illness of Mr. Miller.

Renowned tennis star Bobby Riggs and his wife, Priscilla, arrived in Miami Beach in early February with their five children for a visit at their oceanfront home.

Tierney & Killingsworth, Inc.

Famed singer Dorothy Kirsten (left), Mrs. Howard Cummings, president of the Symphony Club, sponsors of the annual Symphony Ball, and Dr. Fabien K. Sevitzy, conductor of the University of Miami Symphony Orchestra, at the annual Symphony Ball.

Cocktails in the card room and a steak luncheon with non-fattening trimmings in the music room were on the "menu" at Indian Creek Country Club's recent ladies' day. Among guests were Mrs. Fred Obrecht, Mrs. George Whitten, Mrs. Niles Trammell, Mrs. Dan Rice, Mrs. Harry Stevens, and Mrs. George T. Baker.

Announcement of the engagement of Suzie Oakes, widow of James Lowell Oakes, to Bruce Knight, was inspiration for a number of social events. Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Ford and Mr. and Mrs. Al Kremp were joint hosts at a dinner dance at Indian Creek Country club on February eighth honoring the newly engaged couple. Mr. Knight came to Miami eighteen months ago, from Philadelphia to visit his sister, Phoebe Morse. Hostess at a St. Valentine's Day dinner dance at the Surf Club on that day, Suzie Oakes also marked her marriage, for on February fourteenth she and Mr. Knight spoke their vows at the Oakes home on North Bay Road, Miami Beach. Suzie's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Norwood Norfleet, flew down from New York for the wedding, as did her son and his wife, the Richard Jones from Los Angeles, and daughter Daphne Oakes and son, Van Jones, from New York. The bride's brothers, Robert P. McCulloch and John I. B. McCulloch and their wives came from Los Angeles and New York, respectively, and also from New York came the Lawrence J. Doyles and from Spring Lake, N. J., the Frederick F. Schocks Jr., long-time friends. Mr. Knight's sisters and their husbands, Mrs. Paul Abbott and Mrs. Raymond Frick and their daughter, Sally Anne Frick, of Chestnut Hill, Pa., also arrived for the wedding.

A three months trip around the world is cause for celebration, and that's why the Clarence Hands, the Clyde Jennings and the Jay Thomases combined forces—to host a dinner party at LaGorce Country Club for the F. Rouse Smiths, who have left on the world junket. Another party honoring Mr. and Mrs. Smith before their departure was a luncheon at the Surf Club given by Mr. and Mrs. John Haynsworth and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sinclair. They also shared honors with newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Leo Edwards and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Thomas at a dinner dance at the Surf Club hosted by Mrs. John Wofford and Lew Fleming.

Surf Club's first fashion show luncheon, always one of the most important fashion occasions on the calendar, brought out a sea of hats this year—big ones, little ones, tall ones, flowered ones. Milliners who despair of selling milady as many hats as in former years, would have reveled in the sight.

New officers of the University Club of Miami are Richard B. Adams, president; James Deen and John Patterson, vice presidents; Duane Anderson, secretary, and Walter Rogers, treasurer.

Chalk up a new ball on the Miami scene. It's to be March fourth at the Everglades Hotel, Miami, and is for the Miami Ballet to celebrate the ballet's tenth season. Mrs. Jay Moser is board president; Ethel Schonfeld-Gerson is chairman of the ball.

A new recreation room, and terrace at their Miami Beach home makes it possible for Mr. and Mrs. Harry Simone to entertain as many as one hundred and fifty people, which they did recently, to christen the new addition. Almost as glamorous as the hostess, who wore a long gold and white gown and coat she had made in Hong Kong, was Mlle. Chou-Chou, the Simones' miniature poodle, who also had been to the beauty parlor and was wearing a red bow in her gray topknot.

Miami Beach's private social clubs are going for star-studded entertainment, it seems. Both Indian Creek Country Club and the Surf Club are scheduling big names on their program of entertainment this season—names such as Dorothy Shay, Liberace, Carol Channing, Vaughn Monroe, Los Chavales de Espangna and Carmen Cavallero.

Duck Key, a resort nestled about ninety-five miles south of Miami on the Overseas Highway, is enjoying a banner season. Duck Key developer Bryan W. Newkirk hosted more than seventy-five couples at a New Year's Eve party in the "Fim do Mundo" room of Indies House. Mrs. Zaya Marchant is just completing her home on Centre Island there. A former Los Angeles Opera singer, she is one of the first non-corporation home builders on the 350-acre key. Another newcomer to Duck Key is Mrs. Marge McClellan and her family, formerly of St. Petersburg and Mara-

Dan Cupid has been throwing his darts around again, and a recent surprise to their friends was the announcement of the marriage of Mary Warfield Eichert to Landon Hilliard III, son of the junior Hilliards of Virginia Beach, Va. Mary's mother is Mrs. Herbert Eichert of Cocanut Grove and her father was the late Dr. Eichert. She is a sophomore at Hollins and attended Miss Harris school and Master's school at Dobbs Ferry. Mr. Hilliard is a junior at the University of Virginia, where he is a member of St. Anthony Hall.

A Spinster will be a Spinster no longer on May twentieth, when Carol Ring Wallace, member of the Spinster Club and a post debutante, becomes Mrs. Phillip Livingston Brawner. Carol made her debut at the Surf Club in 1955. She is a provisional member of the Junior League and a former member of Twenty Little Working Girls and the Junior Assembly, as well as a graduate of the University of Georgia. Mr. Brawner was graduated from Princeton, attended the University of Edinburgh in Scotland and is a graduate of Harvard Law School. He is a Bachelor and a junior member of the Surf Club.

Pretty Tru Walker won't change her name when she marries. Her fiancé is John Frost Walker III, son of the junior Walkers of Boston, formerly of Union, S. C., and Birmingham. The couple will be married in June. Their engagement has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Walker Jr., of Miami Shores. Tru is a Spinster and a former member of Twenty Little Working Girls and Junior Assembly. She attended Stephens college, University of Miami, where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. After two summers in Europe, she attended University of Geneva in Switzerland.

Mr. Walker will graduate from Yale in June and will receive his commission in the U.S. Marine Corps. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi and Globe and Anchor Society. After his service in the Marine Corps, he plans to attend law school.

Roberto Iglesias and his Ballet Espanol, a company of twenty, will appear on Mary Howes' Sunday Evening Series February twenty-six at the Society of the Four Arts.

FLAMENCO DANCERS DUE IN PALM BEACH

MARY HOWES, in association with John Lane, is presenting on Sunday evening, February twenty-sixth, as a third event in her Sunday Evening Series at the Society of the Four Arts, Roberto Iglesias and his widely-hailed Ballet Espanol. Acclaimed as the leading Spanish ballet company of today, the Roberto Iglesias troupe of twenty dancers is completing a tour of nearly one hundred cities in the United States and Canada under the direction of impresario S. Hurok.

Roberto Iglesias has been described as the most important new personality to emerge in the Spanish dance field since Escudero. His company was hand-picked by Iglesias himself from among the best Spanish dancers of today.

During its three-and-a-half years the company has appeared in most of the Western world's capitals, touring extensively in Europe and in South America.

Critics have been enthusiastic about the choreography, which is the work of Iglesias, and have described it as "full of originality and dramatic power, based on the purest examples of Flamenco and other native Spanish sources".

The company had appeared but once in the United States before its widely-acclaimed Broadway season last Fall. The previous Summer Iglesias had stopped over in New York on his way from South America to Europe and scheduled one performance in Carnegie Hall.

Sold out far in advance, Carnegie Hall rocked to the wild enthusiasm of the audience and the next day the Manhattan critics joined the audience in applauding the company.

Iglesias was born in Guatemala where his grandfather was the president. He studied in Mexico, Spain and in the United States. He was a member of the famous company of Rosario and Antonio for several years and when the two great artists broke up their partnership, Iglesias was invited to replace Antonio as Rosario's partner.

Other members of the company were born in Spain with the exceptions of one each from Puerto Rico, Mexico and Argentina.

At the head of the feminine contingent is the noted dancer Rosario Galan. Rosario Escudero appears with the troupe as guest artiste. Featured dancers include Antonio Espanol, Manolo Galan, Carlos Vega and Juan Tapia. Marian Alonso is the musical director. Maria Fabregas, mezzo-soprano; Pepe Segundo, Flamenco singer, and Felix de Utera, guitarist.

In presenting the Ballet Espanol, Miss Howes and Mr. Lane are bringing to Palm Beach another "first appearance."

THE SIXTH ANNUAL NAPLES Southern Seniors Invitational Golf Tournament held at the Beach Club golf course had an added feature this year by the Ladies Professional Golfers playing the first two days in a Pro-Amateur Event.

Louise Suggs was the winner with a score of 138. She was closely followed by Mickey Wright and Marilyn Smith who tied at 140.

Betsy Rawls, Patty Berg, Barbara Romack, Carol Mann, Mary Lena Faulk, Gloria Armstrong, Marlene Hagge, Ruth Jessen, Bonnie Randolph, Murle MacKenzie, Kathy Cornelius, Barbara Greene, Jo Ann Prentice, Judy Kimball, Kathy Whitworth, Betty Jameson and Mary Ann Reynolds followed in that order.

Over a hundred Southern Seniors and ladies participated in this unusual event.

A source of great attraction is the heated swimming pool and guests enjoy the lanai for cards and luncheon after a swim or sunning on the deck which surrounds the pool. Dave Frey is manager of the pool. A life guard and swimming instructor are on hand at all times.

The Skyliners furnish toe-tapping music frequently for dancing in the Gulf Terrace Room but for the annual Valentine Ball sponsored by the Naples Hospital Service League, they provided special music. Huge valentines suspended from the ceiling decorated the Gulf-front ballroom. A highlight of the evening was the crowning of the Queen of Hearts, a member of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary who has served above and beyond the call of duty.

NEW YORK

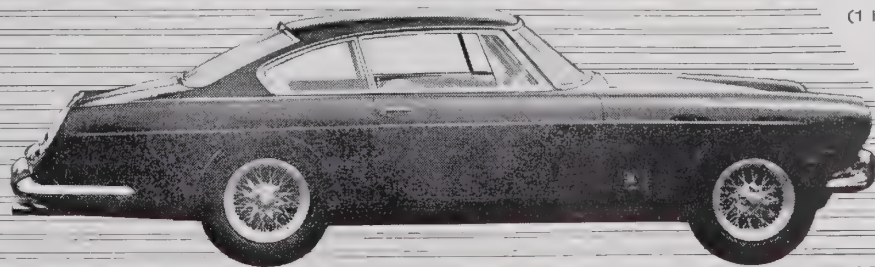

By HENRY O. DORMANN

HERE COULD BE NO DOUBT that one of the biggest events to take place in the last month, was the closing of "El Morocco". The only bigger event was the opening of "El Morocco", two weeks later. The closing itself, however, caused a good deal of comment. While every night is really New Year's Eve at El Morocco when the same old 30-year stand rung out the old, everyone was on hand. Oldsters who had long memories, said that there hadn't been anything like it since the night they celebrated the repeal of prohibition. Kings, princess of the realm and a great many beauties, had ambled through the door.

Joan Crawford looking like an oriental princess in characteristic jeweled turban . . . Handsome Herschel Williams escorted the ever-elegant Duchess of Argyll. Jeff Jones, stalwart of the host's round table, concentrated on blonde Dagmar Patino, striking in a red dress . . . Xavier Cugat beamed like a patriarch as his mate, Abby Lane, gave a new meaning to the cha-cha-cha. Salvador Dali and his antennaed mustaches were everywhere . . . Hope Hampton, who said she was on hand for the original opening, still as frolicksome as a schoolgirl . . . Eleanor Searle Whitney came by after the opera . . . Maggi Zauderers hosting a large ringside table for the Eric de Kolbs . . . Josie Johnson with Leon Block and Jerome Zerbe, whose early El Morocco photos are a whole social history in themselves. There was no Siberia, that is to say, both sides of the dance floor were equally chic, and somehow the harassed waiters managed to serve a seven course feast. Jackie Gleason, who only the day before had received a wire from John Perona which read: "Since you haven't been here in a while, we had to close," still didn't make it in person. But he did send a giant wreath of flowers inscribed: "May El Morocco rest in peace", signed: "The Great Gleason". But Jackie was just about the only one in a funereal mood. For everyone was aware that a gleaming new El Morocco done by Valerian Rybar and complete in every detail, and even more luxurious, was waiting down the street.

There was beautiful blonde Rosy Chisholm at a table along the "good wall" . . . Margaret Argyll sat with Herschel Williams. In glittering silver sequins . . . Hope Hampton was entrenched in the same correct area, with Prince Lalit. At the best ringside table, a hallowed space for the last time, were the George Zauderers. At lavish host Perona's own table: his son, Edwin, Henry and Ann Sell, Beth Leary, Frank and Lisette Hunter and Philip Schell, with a German lovely, Zigrid Goloda. Also adding to the decor: Maggi and Clyde Newhouse, on their way to Palm Beach.

Others bidding farewell to the old "Elmer's": Joan Crawford, Faye Emerson, Frank Hale of Palm Beach, the Ray (Saks-Fifth Ave.) Johnsons, the Duke di San Miniato and his duchess, the Salvador Dalis, Joan Thompson, Mrs. Lewis Amory, Carrie Munn, Bob Ritchie (long time member of Perona's "round table" to whom no other spot will ever be the same), Colette Woods, Joan Muss, the Pepe de Albreus, Sherman Firchild, and Walter Shirley Jr.

Over nine hundred sports, real estate and building industry leaders, paid $50-a-plate, to attend The Lighthouse Sports World Dinner Dance in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria.

The dinner dance benefitted the Summer camp and Winter recreation programs of the New York Association for the Blind. Among the dais guests were: Mayor Robert F. Wagner, Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy, Ed Sullivan, Admiral John J. Bergen, James A. Farley, Howard S. Cullman, Frank Coniff, William M. The twelfth Annual Tiara Ball, which was held at the lovely grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria under a pink and white canopy of twinkling stars hung from the huge crystal chandelier, was one of the loveliest of the season. The boxes high above the ballroom were decorated with white smilax on pink tulle and pink lights shone throughout. On the stage were Grecian columns and hedging. The theme was carried out with pink tablecloths and candelabras intertwined with pink carnations and silver ribbon.

The ball was given in honor of post-debutantes and the proceeds help to support the Spence-Chapin Adoption Service which is the largest inter-racial, non-sectarian agency in this area and provides counseling service and financial assistance to unmarried mothers and provides boarding care for children, including children of minority backgrounds and those with physical handicaps.

In order to bring back the nostalgic days of old and the highest spirits of yesteryear nothing can quite touch the Bal Blanc now in its twelfth season which takes place yearly at the St. Regis Roof. The entire white Russian colony and their limitless group of friends turn out to herald the Russian New Year. Naturally at the stroke of midnight there was a picturesque ceremony of the "Zhonka," the flaming drink marking the passing of the old year and the white rooster, the "Petushok" symbol of the new year. And ominous Friday the thirteenth notwithstanding, Col. Serge Obolensky, bettered last year's mark by flipping four out of five flaming daggers into the board. He does it the hard way—with his teeth and standing on a table. We don't know another septuagenarian in all Manhattan who could have jumped down with the agility of that timeless Czarist cavalry officer and wartime OSS paratrooper. In the large Obolensky party were Mrs. Tuck Guest, Mrs. William R. Hearst Sr., Mrs. Henry Fonda, the Warren Johnsons, Prince and Princess Windisch Graetz, William Zeckendorf, Cesar Balsa, Ileana Bulova, Mrs. Jack Heinz and Charles Addams, Princess Vera of Russia, Princess Serge Belosselsky-Belorsersky, Miss Beth Leary, Princess Lucie Shirazi, Vicomtesse de Rosiere, Mrs. R. Thornton Wilson Jr., Princess Diane Eristavi, Mrs. Sonia Loew, Salvador Dali, Countess Irene Cittadini, Mr. and Mrs. George Zauderer, Mrs. Norman K. Winston, Mrs. Douglas Lake, Mrs. Basil Goulandris, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Maguire, Mrs. Muriel Reynolds and Mrs. Peter Ansberry. During the dinner there was a fashion show. Meyer Davis furnished music for dancing.

The day following Obolensky's colorful affair, The Sheraton East Hotel had its Polonaise Ball benefitting the Polish refugees in this country and generously sponsored by Countess Irene Cittadini and the Helena Rubinstein Foundation. Center of attraction were the chairman Mrs. Arthur Rubinstein and her famous pianist husband who led the Polonaise of twelve couples and which Elsa Maxwell, in great form, closed with Alexander Iolas. The mazurka, beautifully rehearsed by Leon Danielian, brought acclaim for Pamela Drexel, Pamela Colin, Denise Lawson-Johnston and Mrs. John H. Pell. They brought the house down and had to give an encore. Then there was Yura Lazowski, with his spirited folk dancers, and George Balanchine's City Center Ballet doing the enchanting "Liebeslieder Waltzes", by Brahms.

For the eighth consecutive year the Grand Ballroom of The Plaza was converted into a red and pink rose garden for the six hundred persons attending the annual Ball of the Roses benefiting the Roosevelt Hospital's free medical care program.

Given by the Board of Trustees and the Volunteer Committee of the hospital the gala dinner-dance featured entertainment by singer Constance Towers and music by Lester Lanin and his orchestra. Ilka Chase (Mrs. Norton

S. Brown) was mistress of ceremonies. Heading the reception committee were Mrs. Donald F. Bush, president of the hospital; Miss Thayer Gibbons, chairman and Mrs. Thomas B. Foster, vice-chairman of the ball, who were assisted by other members of the committee.

Miss Constance Towers who was appearing in the Persian Room of The Plaza dropped by between acts to perform a series of tasteful songs, wearing an original creation designed exclusively for her by a Hollywood director, Mitchell Leisen. She was escorted by her husband Panamanian industrialist Eugene C. McGrath.

Prior to the ball, many cocktail parties were given in the host's homes or at The Plaza.

Palm Beach

The Winter Capital

By WILMA SPENCER

THE MID-WINTER SEASON in Palm Beach has been very gay, with many parties being given either in the homes or in the various clubs of this enchanted island. There have also been many interesting guests in our midst.

One delightful affair was the dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. May at their sea-side villa, which was followed by movies.

Miss Arlene Francis, sparkling star of stage and television, was honored at a cocktail party given by Former Ambassador Stanton Griffis following her appearance at the Society of the Four Arts.

Another party which was attended by the younger married set was the small dinner-dance at the Bath and Tennis Club which Mr. and Mrs. David H. Annan, of South Ocean Boulevard, gave for Mrs. Annan's son William Donner Roosevelt and his attractive wife who came from their home in Denver, Colo., for a visit with the Annans.

One of the loveliest parties of the mid-Winter season, also held at the Bath and Tennis Club, was the champagne dinner which was given jointly by Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Fisher and Mrs. Glenn Stewart. Sonny Arthur and his Orchestra played.

Mrs. Gerald Geddes' supper-dance at the Geddes home on Island Drive to celebrate the birthday anniversary of her husband was another delightful occasion.

The spacious dining room at the Everglades Club was the setting for the bridal-dinner which Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton gave for Miss Hope Haskell and Charles Hill Jones Jr., just prior to their marriage.

Former Ambassador to Cuba, Arthur Gardner, was host at a dinner party at his ocean-front villa where the Hon. and Mrs. Nicholas Arroyo, and Mr. Gardner's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. Britton Browne, of Washington, D.C., were his guests.

Mrs. John H. Perry Sr., gave a small dinner party at her home on Sea View Avenue, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. George Headley.

The Eugene Howerdds entertained at cocktails at their home on Via del Mar in honor of Mrs. Owen Cheatham, of New York City.

Julie Styne, the composer, who came down from New York for a short vacation and was the guest of Mrs. Nathan B. Spingold at her home on Wells Road, was feted at several parties. Among them the large cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick P. Weissman at their oceanfront villa, and another given by Mr. and Mrs. Horace Dodge II, in the Tahitian Room at Ta-boo. Cliff Hall and his Orchestra played for the latter.

Bert and Richard Morgan Studio

Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Fisher and Mrs. Glenn Stewart gave a buffet supper for several hundred guests at the Bath and Tennis Club prior to the opening performance of the Royal Poinciana Playhouse. Shown above are Mr. Fisher, Mrs. William E. Vose, Mrs. S. Jarvis Brinton, Mrs. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Eberhard Anhauser and Mrs. Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. Granville O. Barclay gave a cocktail-buffet party at their home on Golf View Road for about two hundred of their friends with Joe Bonni and his Society Orchestra playing for the party.

Mrs. Charles S. Davis entertained with a dinner party at her lakefront estate and later took her guests to see the Royal Poinciana Playhouse.

The same evening Mr. and Mrs. Guy Verne of Island Drive gave a dinner party on the Golf Terrace of the Everglades Club in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Philip N. Portin and George Gaston. Later the Fergusons took their guests to the Royal Poinciana Playhouse.

The Orville Bulmans gave one of a series of cocktail parties they are giving this season at their home on Woodbridge Road.

Mrs. Lorraine Gallagher Freimann gave a dinner party in the Orange Garden of the Everglades Club for her mother, Mrs. William H. Gallagher, in celebration of Mrs. Gallagher's birthday anniversary. Prior to the dinner, cocktails were served in the Regency Room.

Mrs. Gustave H. Rainville, of Via del Mar, gave a luncheon for a number of her friends at Schraffts.

Mr. and Mrs. John James Roreck gave a formal dinner at their home on South Ocean Boulevard in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Foksett.

A party given by one of the members of the younger set was the luncheon given by Miss Isabel de Landa at the home of her mother, Mrs. Wilson Lucom and Mr. Lucom on South Ocean Boulevard on the occasion of her fourteenth birthday anniversary. Her guests included Miss Leslie Bryant, Miss Joliane von Rebhan, Miss Page Lee Hufty, Miss Wendy Farrar, Miss Martha Weldon, Miss Leslie Mitchell, Miss Mercedes Mestro, Miss Sara Garcia, Miss Ellen Fuller, Miss Ann Woodward and Miss Leila Richards.

Mrs. Robert McCoskry Butt honored Miss Margaret Taylor with a miscellaneous shower in the yellow Room of the Everglades Club shortly before Miss Taylor's marriage to the Rev. Dr. Tage Teisen. Later Mrs. Butt took her guests into the Orange Garden of the Club for the Tombola luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Moore, of Piqua, Ohio, were honored by their hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Giroux Jr., of South Ocean Boulevard, with a luncheon at the La Coquille Club. Mr. and Mrs. Giroux also gave a small cocktail party at their home for the house-guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus R. Trout.

Mrs. Middleton O'Malley-Keyes entertained the "French Singers," and other guests with a luncheon at the Palm Beach Athletic Club.

Four year old Prescott Le Breton Terry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Terry, of 137 King Road, was christened on Tuesday afternoon, January twenty-fourth in the Baptistry Chapel of the Church of Bethesda-by-the-Sea. The Rev. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, D.D., Rector of St. James Episcopal Church, New York City, officiated. The godfathers were Henry Richardson Jr., and Daniel D. Dickey, and the godmother was Mrs. Marguerite Hillman Purnell. Jesse Lee Terry was proxy for Mr. Dickey, and Mrs. Henry Ferguson Richardson Jr., was proxy for Mrs. Purnell. Following the christening a small reception was held at the Terry home. Dr. Kinsolving who is a cousin of Mrs. Terry's, performed the wedding ceremony of Mr. and Mrs. Terry, and also christened the Terry's two other children, Robert Lee Terry Jr., who is now eleven years old, and nine year old Ellen McHenry Terry.

The Palm Beach Dancers, a group of members of the Everglades Club, held a dinner-dance in the Orange Garden of the Everglades Club. Lester Lanin and his Orchestra flew down from New York to play.

Mrs. James Nemec was hostess to members of the Palm Beach Quills and their guests at her home on North Ocean Boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard F. Gimbel gave a cocktail party at their oceanfront villa in compliment to Dr. and Mrs. Howard Rusk.

Among interesting visitors in the resort are Mrs. Munn Baker and her son, George F. Baker III, who came South for a visit with Mrs. Baker's father, Charles A. Munn, at "Amado," his oceanfront villa. George was here during his mid-term vacation.

Dr. Donald L. Kemmerer, professor of the University of Illinois, and well-known throughout this country and abroad where he helped organize a department of law and medicine in the Theological Seminary in Afghanistan, has been the guest of John E. Rovensky at the Everglades Club for a short rest.

Mrs. Austin Pardue of Pittsburgh, Pa., and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles B. Klotz, of Emporia, Va., are visiting Mrs. Pardue's mother, Mrs. Charles A. Klotz at her home on Everglades Avenue. Later Bishop Pardue will join the family group for a vacation.

Mrs. Robert McEwan of Darien, Conn., came South for a visit with Eunice Lady Oakes at her apartment at the Villas.

Sir Charles Arden-Clarke G.C.M.G., was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Boardman Milligan at their home on Kings Road. During his visit Mr. and Mrs. Milligan gave a buffet-dinner at their home in his honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schmid, of New York City and Tryon, N.C., have been recent guests of Mrs. Jeremiah D. Maguire. Lady de Clifford, of London, England who was a guest of Mrs. Maguire earlier in the season, later visited Mr. and Mrs. William Allison at their South Ocean villa.

Both Mrs. Maguire and Mrs. Allison gave parties for their houseguests.

Evangelist Billy Graham, and Mrs. Graham, who are Wintering in Vero Beach, came down recently for a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Bolton Sr., at their Via Bellaria residence.

James M. E. O'Grady, director of the State Department office in New Orleans, La., and Mrs. O'Grady have been visiting their uncle, Livingston Short at his new guest house at 635 Island Drive.

Among the regular Winter residents who have homes in Palm Beach and who have recently arrived are Mrs. Charles S. Davis, who came down from Chicago, to spend the season at her estate on South Lake Trail; the Frederick T. Bedfords, of Greens Farms, Conn., and New York City, who have opened their Winter home on Clarke Avenue; Mrs. Joan Long Moore, of New York City who is again at the Brazilian Court Hotel for her annual Winter stay; the Hallet Johnsons, of Princeton, N.J., who are being welcomed again after an absence of two years from the resort. They have taken a house on Clarke Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. George White Traver have come down from their apartment on Lake Shore Drive in Chicago for their annual stay at 325 South Lake Drive.

The Hollis S. Bakers of Grand Rapids, Mich., who divide their summers between England and their cottage on the Isle of Poros, in Greece, are now in residence at their home on Via Vizcaya.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry J. Noerling, of Albany, N.Y., are again at their apartment at the Everglades Club.

Mrs. Louis Edward Leverone of Lake Forest, Ill., is in the resort for her annual Winter stay. She is presently at the Breakers but later will visit her sister, Mrs. Kenneth T. Philips at her home on El Dorado Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Brinkley, of Memphis, Tenn., are again at their Winter home on Middle Road.

Mrs. Frank B. Beasman has arrived from Baltimore, Md., and is in residence at her home on Via Vizcaya where her brother John A. Ritter, also of Buffalo is a guest for the season.

Raymond F. Kelley, chairman of the board and president of Dynamics Corporation of America, and Mrs. Kelley, have come down from New York for their annual Winter stay at the Riviera Apartments.

The Rev. and Mrs. John U. Harris, of Boston, Mass., and Mrs. Harris Burton, of Baltimore, Md., came South for a visit with Mrs. Burton's and the Rev. Harris' mother, Mrs. John Francis Harris at her residence on El Bravo Way.

Sterling Peacock, of Chicago, Ill., and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Donald G. Peacock and her small daughter, Nanette, of Hinsdale, Ill., arrived by motor recently to spend the season in the resort and have again leased the house at 167 Dolphin Road for the season.

Gen. and Mrs. Oliver P. Newman, of Little Silver, N.J., motored to Palm Beach for a Winter holiday and were the guests of Mrs. Katherine D. Henderson at her home on Australian Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Brittain Walker Jr., and their small daughter Betsy of Washington, D.C., and Mr. and Mrs. George L. dePeyster of Santa Barbara, Calif., have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. James A. dePeyster at their residence on Pendleton Lane.

THE NATION'S CAPITAL

By HAZEL MARKEL

INAUGURATION OF John Fitzgerald Kennedy as President of the United States set the scene for a glittering array of social events that brought guests to Washington from all over the Nation. They attended not only the big, gala official functions but also many private parties that drew celebrities all the way from JFK and his lovely Jacqueline on through the new Cabinet, top-ranking socialites and New York and Hollywood stars.

Climaxing the memorable week were the five Inaugural Balls with the spotlight on the handsome young First Couple. Glamorous Mrs. Kennedy was a vision in white peau d'ange designed by herself featuring a silver paillette embroidered bodice veiled with a filmy overblouse of white chiffon. Her only jewels were exquisite pendant diamond earrings accenting the beauty of her dark hair. The President's mother Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy wore an interesting gown. Fashioned in sheath style of glittering sequins it was first worn by her at a presentation ceremony in London at the Court of St. James. She and her husband the former Ambassador to Great Britain sat with her son and Mrs. Kennedy in the Presidential Box at the Armory.

White-tie and bejeweled couples twirled at the Armory, the Mayflower, Statler-Hilton, Shoreham and Sheraton-Park hotels to the music of such noted bands as Meyer Davis, Lester Lanin, Washington's Sidney and Devron, Henry King and Ray McKinley. Guests ogled the President's party, sipped champagne and celebrated the new administration. Among them we saw the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire who came from England at the invitation of the new President. They arrived with their embassy hosts British Ambassador and Lady Caccia but soon joined the President and Mrs. Kennedy in the Presidential Box. Lady Caccia's gown was of regal black velvet with a bodice inset of pearl and diamante embroidery. The chic French Ambassadors arrived, on the arm of her handsome husband Herve Alphand, wearing luxurious ice blue satin topped with white mink and brunette Countess Knuth-Winterfeldt, dancing with her husband the Danish Ambassador, was dramatic in filmy red lace worn with a diamond tiara. Mrs. Morris Cafritz, who was also serving as co-hostess with Mrs. Herbert May for the ball for cadets here for the Inaugural Parade, was elegant in turquoise brocade, diamond jewelry and a sweeping purple stole.

A feature of each ball was the arrival of the new Cabinet and their wives who were brought in with fanfare to take special boxes. Attractively-gowned ladies included Mrs. Douglas Dillon in pale pink gros de Londres with pearl and crystal embroidery glittering on the tiny-sleeved bodice, Mrs. Robert Kennedy, the President's vivacious sister-in-law, in lustrous pink satin all-over embroidered in delicate silver flowers, a creation of Saint Aubin in Georgetown. Presidential sister Pat Lawford wore sleek white satin with slight train and a pearl and silver encrusted bodice and we caught sight of the First Lady's pretty press secretary Miss Pamela Turnure in floating white chiffon with soft overblouse above a coral-embroidered bodice.

Co-chairmen of the big balls were former U. S. Ambassador to Canada Mr. Stanley Woodward and Mrs. Hale Boggs, wife of the Congressman from Louisiana. Both were taking bows on all sides for the elegance and beauty of the huge events and the tremendous amount of work that went into them. Mrs. Woodward was gowned in carmel peau de soie and white lace. Pretty Linda Boggs wore shimmery oriental brocade in a soft champagne shade which she highlighted with a diamond necklace.

THE INAUGURAL GALA, on the eve of the Inauguration, had Frank Sinatra and the President's brother-in-law Peter Lawford as impressarios who presented a great assemblage of top stars including Lawrence Olivier, Maestro Leonard Bernstein, Ella Fitzgerald, Sidney Poitier, Helen Traubel, Ethel Merman, Milton Berle, Mahalia Jackson, Gene Kelly, Harry Belafonte, Jimmy Durante, Janet Leigh and Tony Curtis and others. President and Mrs. Kennedy seemed to enjoy it tremendously and stayed until the finale. Joining them among others in the Presidential Box we saw the President's sister Pat Lawford, Senator Henry "Scoop" Jackson who sat next to the First Lady, the First Couple's parents the Kennedys and the Auchinclosses and Inaugural Chairman and Mrs. Edward Foley. Seated in their own box were the Vice President and Mrs. Lyndon Johnson who wore a wonderful shade of chartreuse satin under a dark mink coat and their two pretty daughters Lynda and Lucy. LBJ gave a short address during the evening and a stream of admirers came by the Johnson Box.

THE GOVERNORS' RECEPTION in the big Sheraton-Park hotel ballroom not only brought a large percentage of chief executives from the 50 states but also thousands of guests headed by The President Elect and the Vice President Elect and Mrs. Johnson. Former Secretary of the Treasury Mr. John Snyder was chairman of the successful event with co-chairmen Mrs. O. Max Gardner and Mrs. Oscar Chapman. Mr. Snyder received with his daughter Drucie (Mrs. John Horton) and accompanied the President Elect on his rounds to meet the Governors. President and Mrs. Truman and daughter Margaret with husband Clifton Daniel came in for much attention with many of their longtime friends coming by the Presidential Box to greet them. Among them new Roving Ambassador Averill Harrison, new Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Mennen Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Biddle, and a number of diplomats and their wives including British Ambassador and Lady Caccia. We saw Lena Horne in the throng, former Postmaster General James Farley, Senate Minority Leader and Mrs. Everett Dirksen, the Ambassador of Ghana in full native dress and the Russian Ambassador and Madame Menshikov.

INAUGURAL CEREMONIES at the U.S. Capitol drew tremendous throngs despite a biting cold day. Joining the Kennedys and Johnsons on the President's Stand were such well-knowns as President and Mrs. Eisenhower, President and Mrs. Truman, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Chief Justice and Mrs. Warren, Vice President and Mrs. Nixon, former Vice President Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, among others and Inaugural Ceremonies Chairman Senator John Sparkman and Mrs. Sparkman. Sitting on the Inaugural Platform below was Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt in order to hear better.

The handsome young President was eloquent as he faced the huge crowd for his Inaugural Address—a masterpiece of moving, unadorned language that left an impact that is apt to be transmitted to history. The beautiful First Lady was a study in radiant pride as her eyes followed her husband through every moment of the historic occasion.

Following immediately the Inauguration was the Inaugural Luncheon for the President's party with Mrs. John Sparkman and the Senator as hosts. Guests went from the President's Stand to the Old Supreme Court Chamber of the Capitol where the luncheon featured both New England lobster and Texas beef in salute to the new Chief Executive and his Vice President. An ambrosial dessert was a meringue shell in form of a PT boat filled with fruit and whipped cream. Guests joining the official party were singer Morton Downey, poet Robert Frost and ranking members of House and Senate and their ladies among others.

President Eisenhower and Mamie went on to a luncheon that former AEC Chairman and Mrs. Lewis Strauss gave in farewell to the outgoing President and First Lady. A group drawn mainly from the Eisenhower official family gathered at the F St. Club for cocktails, music, luncheon and reminiscences. Among them were Vice President and Mrs. Nixon, Colonel John Eisenhower and wife Barbara and Press Secretary James Haggerty who is the new Vice President of the American Broadcasting Company. Later in the afternoon, President and Mrs. Eisenhower officially departed Washington and drove to their Gettysburg farm.

Fourth, New Attorney General Robert Kennedy was among guests at the Mayflower dinner honoring Speaker Sam Rayburn given by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Connally of Texas.

THE OFFICIAL KICKOFF event of the Inaugural Week was the Distinguished Ladies Reception at the National Gallery of Art where flower-banked fountains played, U.S. Marine Band orchestras entertained and VIP ladies greeted Inaugural visitors 7,000 strong. Mrs. Katie Louchheim, who headed Inaugural Hospitality duties for Chairman Foley, was chairman of this impressive event which featured a receiving line of some of the Nation's best-known women—Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, the new First Couple's mothers, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy and Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, Mrs. Truman and daughter Margaret, all the Cabinet wives headed by Mrs. Dean Rusk, wife of the new Secretary of State, wives of ranking Senate and House members, the glamorous Kennedy sisters and sister-in-laws including the Attorney General's wife Mrs. Robert Kennedy and the wife of the Inaugural Chairman Mrs. Edward Foley. We saw Senator Margaret Chase Smith and new Senator Maurine Newberger, Representative Edith Green, Democratic National Committee Vice Chairman Margaret Price, Mrs. O. Max Gardner, Mrs. Robert LeBaron, Mrs. Ralph Gardner, former Director of the Mint Nellie Tayloe Ross. Hollywood's Marian Davies was among guests who included GOP U. S. Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest, Nancy Stevenson daughter-in-law of the new U.N. Ambassador and many, many more. A special group escorted by Deputy Chief of Protocol Clement Conger included wives of foreign ambassadors who were received by such ladies as Mrs. Rusk and Mrs. Dillon whom they will be seeing much of in the busy round of social events on Embassy Row.

PRIVATE PARTIES boasted not only famous honor guests but also famous hosts. Prize guests of course were the John F. Kennedys and the Lyndon B. Johnsons, both before and after the Inauguration ceremony. The President's sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Smith were hosts in their George town house for the Gala stars with the President-Elect and Vice President-Elect and Mrs. Johnson coming in to join members of the Kennedy family and friends. Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy arrived on the arm of son Ted, the First Lady's mother Janet Auchincloss was lovely in wine velvet and mink, Democratic Treasurer Matthew McCloskey and his wife, were there. Frank Sinatra came with Mr. and Mrs. Nat King Cole. Others included Gala chairman and Mrs. Barron Hilton, Georgetown neighbors GOP Assistant Labor Secretary and Mrs. George Cabot Lodge, Adlai Stevenson, Massachusetts Senator and Mrs. Ben Smith, the George Y. Wheelers with the new Deputy Attorney General Whizzer White, author James Michener, Manhattan socialites Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Akers, and many more.

Guests wine, dined and danced to the famous music of Lester Lanin until the small hours.

THE BART LYTTONS of Hollywood snared the President Elect and the Vice President Elect and Mrs. Johnson for their lavish, name-packed party, a buffet dansant in the Statler-Hilton's Congressional Room, arranged by Washington's Mary Stuart Montague Price. Guests seated at tables around the room or twirling to gay tunes of an orchestra playing from a palm-banked bower included Conrad Hilton, Bob and Millie Considine, Actress Diana Lynn, TV's Bar Masterson, Governor Pat Brown of California, Donald Dawson and actress wife Ilona Massey, Attorney Marvin Braverman, Bandmaster and Mrs. Nelson Riddle, Jimmy Durante and bride Margie, columnist Earl Wilson, Washington Transit tycoon and Mrs. O. Roy Chalk, the Paul Ziffens of California and many more.

Guests feasted on Alaskan King Crab, Kennebec salmon, jumbo shrimp, smoked turkey, Virginia ham, poulet au vin, choice cheeses, desserts and champagne.

From official circles came Senate Majority Leader and Mrs. Mike Mansfield, Senator and Mrs. John McClellan, Senator and Mrs. John Sparkman, Senator and Mrs. Albert Gore, Senator Henry Jackson escorting Miss Helen Langer, niece of the North Dakota Senator, Senator and Mrs. Everett Jordan, Representative and Mrs. Hale Boggs, Representative and Mrs. Harold Cooley, Representative and Mrs. Chet Holofield, Representative and Mrs. Richard Bolling among others. The new Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Orville Freeman were there, the new U. S. Treasurer Elizabeth Smith, new Postmaster General and Mrs. J. Edmond Day and Assistant State Secretary and Mrs. Mennen Williams and many more.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Lytton was their pretty daughter Timi in delicate silver brocade. Mrs. Lytton's gown was floor-length black velvet with off-shoulder neckline. Joining them in the line was George Jessel. Mr. Lytton is board chairman of the Lytton Financial Corporation in California, chairman of the California Democratic Finance Committee and a member of the Governor's Financial Advisory Committee.

PRECEDING THE BALLS Mr. and Mrs. George Y. Wheeler II were the envied hosts of Washington. They were first to entertain the new President along with members of the Kennedy family, the Auchinclosses, relatives and close friends of the First Family and members of the new Cabinet and their wives. The gala dinner party took place at the Wheelers' spacious residence on fashionable Foxhall Road. This social coup has the Capital predicting that pretty, youthful Mrs. Wheeler will become one of Washington's top hostesses.

NEW U. S. CHIEF OF PROTOCOL and Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke gave a gay pre-Ball soiree at the Fairfax Hotel's swank new Jockey Club. Honor guests were Hispanic Americans who assisted in President Kennedy's campaign. From out of town came former Governor Averill Harriman, New Jersey Governor and Mrs. Meyner, New York Mayor and Mrs. Robert Wagner, San Juan Mayoress Dona Felicia Gautier, Judge Samuel Montoya, Mr. and Mrs. Carmen de Sapio, Actress Myrna Loy, socialites Mr. and Mrs. Norman Winston, California Attorney General and Mrs. Stanley Mosk, Adlai Stevenson's son John and wife and numbers of others.

"New faces" in the throng included the new Secretary of State and his charming wife Mrs. Dean Rusk, Senator and Mrs. Claiborne Pell, "Soapy" and Nancy Williams and Under Secretary of State and Mrs. Chester Bowles. A large group came from Congressional circles — Senator and Mrs. Dennis Chavez, Senator and Mrs. George Smathers, Senator and Mrs. Albert Gore, Senator and Mrs. Wayne Morse, Representative and Mrs. Eugene Keogh, Representative Edna Kelly and daughter Pat, Representative and Mrs. Joseph Montoya, and the handsome Maryland couple Representative and Mrs. Thomas Johnson.

Enjoying a gay cocktail hour and a choice buffet supervised by the Jockey Club's astute Jacques, were fashion expert Mrs. Tobe Davis ("Tobe Says"), columnist Leonard Lyons and wife Sylvia, the handsome Luis de Pedrosos of the Spanish Embassy, House Radio Gallery Assistant Superintendent Mike Michelson and his pretty wife, among others.

"Angie" Duke, elegant in white tie with decorations, and his charming wife, wearing a rich satin gown, mingled among guests with charming informality that presages immediate popularity for them. The many present at this delightful party went away singing the Dukes' praises.

MOTION PICTURE ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT and Mrs. Eric Johnston were hosts at a large and elegant champagne supper party before the Inaugural Balls. The well-known company clad in white tie, formal gowns and jewels was asked from 6:30 to 9 p.m. so the receiving line was busy most of the evening. Around the handsome drawing room of the Motion Picture Association headquarters we saw the Peruvian Ambassador and Senora de Berckemeyer, the Portuguese Ambassador with his wife Senora de Esteves Fernandes who was getting a warm welcome after several months on the Continent, the Italian Ambassador and Madame Brosio, Iceland's envoy and Madame Thors who wore her native costume with its intriguing headdress. The Danish Ambassador and Countess Knuth-Winterfeldt, British Ambassador and Lady Caccia with their houseguests The Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, The Swedish Ambassador and Madame Jarring who wore bluish pink satin, the Norwegian Ambassador and Madame Koht, the blond and handsome Chilean couple Ambassador and Senora de Muller, Philippine Envoy and Madame Romulo, the gay Finnish couple Ambassador and Madame Seppala and many more.

Coming in for considerable attention was author Cleveland Amory whose new book "Who Killed Society?" was a popular topic. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ives, Jr. and his uncle Adlai Stevenson were favorite guests. Mr. and Mrs. Erle Cocke and Mr. and Mrs. Cocke Jr., were up from Georgia for the big week. Washington regulars included the Robert LeBarons with blond Peggy in very pretty French blue chiffon, Mrs. Jorje Salles, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Henle, Vice Admiral and Mrs. Harold Baker, Morris and Gwen Cafritz, Les and Glade Biffle, Sylvan and Mara Marshall, Floyd and Irma Akers with Irma in a wonderful white satin gown glittering with diamonds.

At tables circling the dining room where an elaborate buffet was served we saw Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Houghteling, Marine General and Mrs. Franklin Hart, the Chief of Naval Operations and Mrs. Arleigh Burke, dashing Dr. Lawn Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. William Willard and Representative Tom Johnson with wife Agnes in a lovely black lace gown accented with a red velvet rose.

Washington's prized bachelors were out in force. We said hello to Richard Howland, George Williams, Marvin Braverman, Charles Dobbins and several others. It was a beautiful party and a perfect prelude to the Inaugural's most gala evening.

FOLLOWING THE BALLS, columnist Joseph Alsop was favored by President Kennedy's appearance at a late night party at his house in Georgetown and Mrs. Stephenson Mahoney who was entertaining President and Mrs. Truman at a supper party hit the social jackpot when the new Chief Executive made a surprise appearance after declining earlier. Guests at Mrs. Mahoney's Prospect Avenue residence included poet Robert Frost, HEW Secretary and Mrs. Ribicoff, Interior Secretary and Mrs. Udall, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wrightman of Palm Beach and Senator and Mrs. Mike Monroney among others.

It was an exciting, thrill-packed week that left party-goers exhausted but declaring they would not have missed a minute of it.

One of the big pre-Inaugural events was the annual Touchdown Club dinner at the Sheraton-Park Hotel. Here the new Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg (left) chats with former Secretary of Commerce Frederick Mueller. BULMAN ISLAND WILL LIVE AGAIN

THE COLORFULLY CARBED natives who inhabit and frolic on "Bulman Island," an enchanted land created on canvas by Orville Bulman, will again be seen in Palm Beach when the sixth exhibition of the distinguished artist is previewed at the Worth Avenue Gallery on March fifth and thereafter through March seventeenth.

A large contingent from the Palm Beach art world have found joy on this colorful island and in its whimsical natives. Unprecedented interest has been centered on the Bulman exhibition, which will be the first for the artist in Palm Beach since he won international distinction in a sell-out exhibition held in 1959 at the Galerie Andre Weil in Paris.

His forthcoming exhibit also marks his biennial showing at the Worth Avenue Gallery; his last exhibit at the gallery was held in 1959.

Those attending the exhibit will be transported to "Bulman Island," a place where one can roam with complete abandon. For the most part the island has been drawn from Mr. Bulman's impressions of the Island of Haiti. But in executing his paintings the artist creates a special land, a make-believe land that, at times, is almost bewitched.

If you wish you can wander down a sandy lane and easily lose yourself in the gaiety and charm of the landscape, the colorful houses, the lush jungle or the rhythmic motion of the natives as they go about their chores. You will be caught up in the activity of this bustling island; everything sways; the towering palm trees, the children, the baskets of fruit balanced on the head of a maiden going to market.

"VOYAGE BIENHEUREUX"

"LE VOYAGE DES ANGES"

Your travels could take you down a sun-drenched street spotted here and there by brightly painted frame houses, some adorned with the elegant touch of Victorian gingerbread. The windows or doors of many are open and in their shadows natives can be seen. Some appear shy, they act as if they know we are looking in, while others continue to go about their household duties.

One of the artist's favorite subjects is the sea which surrounds his island. You can usually see a small, though tough, boat surging through the blue tropical water. Usually an entire family is aboard; the children play, the father navigates. Their destination . . . who knows? Possibly to market or a Sunday voyage. More than likely they themselves don't know.

In many cases the artist has painted angels to guide their trip and in other instances playful mermaids from the sea to frolic with the captain.

Amidst the dark, humid landscape of the jungle you may suddenly come upon a native beauty relaxing and enjoying her bath. You will be amused to see her in a bathtub, an ironic luxury of the island. A majestic lion, her protector, sits nearby. He smiles. For even the animal kingdom have found peace on this island.

The beautiful beast appears more and more in the imaginative detail of Bulman paintings along with roosters and monkeys which have always been popular with the artist.

Most people today know of the fantastic rise of Orville Bulman as a major American artist. A business man who heads two corporations in Grand Rapids, he turned to painting fourteen years ago after an automobile accident temporarily forced him from his desk work. It was during this time that he decided to turn to painting, an art which had always interested him.

"CROW'S ROOST"

"PETITE MIMIQUE"

That he was successful is more than evident in the recognition he has gained in this country and in Europe. He had his first show in 1950 at the former Clinton Sheperd Gallery in Palm Beach and since then he has exhibited in Madison, Wis.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Wilmington, Del.; New York, in numerous other exhibits in Palm Beach and the previously noted exhibit in Paris.

His paintings, which are also in hundreds of private collections, are usually sold-out on the opening of his exhibits.

Mr. Bulman and his wife reside in Palm Beach during the Winter at their residence on Woodbridge Road.

His exhibition at the Worth Avenue Gallery will be opened with a preview cocktail party at which Mr. Bulman and his wife will receive with Mrs. Duggett Benson, Director of the Gallery.

Beginning March 6th the exhibition will be open to the public and may be viewed daily from 10 to 5:30 and on Saturdays by appointment only.

THE GALA OPENING of the new Findlay Galleries in Palm Beach on January twenty-sixth was attended by over 600 persons. The handsome regency building, located in Findlay Plaza on South County Road between Worth and Peruvian Avenue is being hailed as one of America's most beautiful new art galleries. Built at a cost of over $1,000,000 the building is the largest of its type in Florida and will house a collection of art valued at $1,000,000.

Opening was highlighted by a preview of the famous Salvador Dali jewel collection owned by the Owen Cheatham Foundation. The collection was sponsored at the galleries by the Junior Museum Guild of Palm Beach County as a fund-raising benefit for the erection of a junior museum.

SARASOTA

By MARIAN MURRAY

THOUGH NO CROCUSES or jonquils are poking through hard-packed earth here on the Gulf Coast, the air is full of Spring, and the minds of all and sundry turn toward growing things and gardens.

The Sarasota Garden Club, which consists of eighteen Circles, is as busy this season as eighteen hives of bees. Almost every unit has some special project, in addition to the March Flower Show and other activities in which they all participate.

Ten houses by nine architects were on view on February 15 and 16 — all either in the city itself or on nearby keys. Each owner received one of the especially designed sundials, which have come to be treasured insignia. Many of the Distinguished Homes are by avant-grade architects; a few are by more conventional-minded designers.

Those who opened their homes this year are: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Close on Sandy Hook Road; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Trouchaud on Bayou Louise; Mr. and Mrs. Percy A. Leon in San Remo Estates; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Mitchell of Toronto and Whitfield Estates; Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Doyle on 42nd Street; Mr. and Mrs. Kent S. McKinley, St. Armand's Key; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard S. Florsheim, also on St. Armand's Key; Mr. and Mrs. William J. Ingler on Lido Shores; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Terry on Longboat Key; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Goodman, also on Longboat.

At Ivy League Ladies' Night. From the left: Mrs. Lopez-Fresquet, wife of the speaker of the evening; Dr. Rufo Lopez-Fresquet; Mrs. David B. Lindsay Jr.; Anselm Frankel, president of the League; the Rev. Charles H. Ricker. Second, Gordon Whitney, one of founders and active members of Longboat Key Art Association; Mrs. Whitney; Mrs. Paul C. Dietz; Mr. Dietz, director of the Association.

Mrs. Edward J. Seibert was general chairman of the opening. She was assisted by: Mrs. Arthur E. Timm, home selection; Mrs. Lindsay Page, brochures and posters; Mrs. David B. Lindsay Jr., tickets; Mrs. A. C. Maxfield and Mrs. J. R. Hamilton, hostesses and guides; Mrs. Frank Evans Jr., and Mrs. Henry L. Williford, publicity; Mrs. S. Dilworth Clarke Jr., and Mrs. Frank Evans Sr., roads and signs; Mrs. Robert W. Greenwood, posters.

Officers of the Founders' Circle are: president, Mrs. Adams; first vice president, Mrs. Timm; second vice president, Mrs. Gerald E. Ludwig; recording secretary, Mrs. Richard H. Ludden; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edwin A. Barnes; treasurer, Mrs. Mario Lucci; parliamentarian, Mrs. John F. Burket Jr.

Under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Karl A. Bickel, with Mrs. Ralph L. Longley as co-chairman, the entire Club is putting on its sixth annual Antiques Show, in the Lido Beach Casino, from February 21 through 26, with exhibitors from all over the United States. On Tuesday, February 21, there was a preview, from 7 to 10 p.m. Throughout the week, doors are open from 1 to 10 p.m., and on Sunday, from 1 to 6.

For the preview, Mrs. Wharton G. Ingram, president, and other members of the executive board, acted as hostesses, assisted by chairmen of committees for the show. Mrs. Lewis Hewlett has been in charge of tickets at the Casino; Mrs. Ralph Barnes, publicity; Mrs. Louis B. Thiers, president of the Palm Circle, coffee table, with other members of that Circle aiding her. Representatives of various circles have been taking over as hostesses for individual days.

In mid-February, the Club brought the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo to the Municipal Auditorium. Mrs. Chester A. Braman was chairman of the committee for arrangements, with Mrs. Ingram acting as honorary chair-

The Tree Circle, which for several years has sponsored a Garden Tour drive, will do so again on March 24. Mrs. Ross P. Cady is president of that group. Mrs. Chester A. Braman and Mrs. H. Spencer Hannis are co-chairmen for the tour. It was the Tree Circle that last year brought to Sarasota the Dali jewels, which this year were shown in Palm Beach.

Those who go to the Plaza Restaurant Friday noon at any time of year are likely to see, lunching there, a large or small group of writers, most of whose names are famous all over the country, and, in some cases, beyond both Western and Eastern oceans.

The group has no name, and no fixed membership. Any number up to a dozen men have just formed the habit of getting together around a table once a week. Among those who most frequently forgather are MacKinlay Kantor, John D. MacDonald, Joseph Hayes, Frederick Woltman, Wyatt Blasingsame, Richard E. Glendinning Jr., Karl A. Bickel, Edward W. Beattie Jr., Felix Riesenberg Jr., and Stan Windhorn.

At the moment, Mr. Hayes, who is playwright and producer as well as author of novels, has been in New York for some time, working on the production of a motion picture from his own script, in which Frederic March will play the lead.

Scores of young women worked tirelessly this year, as always, in preparation for the Junior Welfare League's annual ball, which was held on the evening of January 28, again in the Municipal Auditorium.

For the occasion, the Auditorium became Camelot, at King Arthur's Court. Red and white streamers were caught up in the center of a dropped ceiling, and carried out to the sides of the hall. Heraldic banners hung from poles projecting at the sides, and table decorations also were created around heraldic shields.

Mrs. George M. Cobb, chairman for the dance, was assisted by various committees: that on decorations, headed by Mrs. Robert Wilson and Mrs. Kenneth Hoskinson as co-chairmen; table decorations, Mrs. Russell K. Vezin; invitations, Mrs. James J. Drymon; reservations, Mrs. Warren K. Beall; ushers, Mrs. V. Morris Smith Jr.

In their progress toward full-fledged Junior League status, members have put in a total of 2225 hours this year on community service projects, ranging from presenting puppet shows in schools to acting as therapists and aides for Happiness House Clinic, and serving on the boards of local organizations.

Officers this year are: president, Mrs. Delbert Riffe; first vice president, Mrs. D. C. McClelland Jr.; second vice president, Mrs. William E. Robertson; recording secretary, Mrs. George Bloodworth; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Hamilton C. Jones; treasurer, Mrs. Charles E. Early. Members of standing committees: education, Mrs. Arne Carlson; placement, Mrs. L. H. Redman; public relations; Mrs. W. Davis Parker; provisional, Mrs. Robertson; by-laws, Mrs. Lynn M. Silvertooth; projects, Mrs. Richard Meyer; ways and means, Mrs. William T. Harrison Jr.

Two Sarasota authors — Laura Cooper Rendina and John D. MacDonald — are represented in a newly-published anthology called "Mirrors," along with twenty-two other writers, including Ralph Waldo Emerson and James Thurber. "Mirrors" is the third in a series of Scholastic Unit Anthologies, all under the editorial supervision of Stephen Dunning of Duke University, with Robert A. Bennett editor of this unit. Mr. MacDonald's story is called "Too Young to Marry;" Mrs. Rendina's "Kaleidoscope." The book is obviously intended to indicate how young people look to themselves.

As Garden Club prepares for Ballet Russe. From the left: Mrs. Chester A. Braman, Mrs. E. G. Sisson Jr., Mrs. Richard Peck, Mrs. John B. Logan, Mrs. James P. Ferguson.

"Kaleidoscope" was also included in an anthology put out by the State Department, which was first published in English and then translated into Thai and sent out to Thailand.

A benefit card party will be held by the Sarasota Wellesley Club on February 27, at the Sarasota Bay Country Club. Mrs. Russell O. Conklin is in charge of reservations. In January, the Wellesley Club held a luncheon meeting at the Field Club. Among out-of-town Wellesley women who attended the luncheon was Mrs. M. K. Moore of Louisville, Ky., who was visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William K. Moore. Present also was Mrs. Inghram D. Hook of Kansas City and Sandy Hook, Siesta Key. Mr. and Mrs. Hook came East shortly after Christmas, and Mr. Hook flew back to Kansas City in mid-January. Thereafter, Mrs. Hook spent a few days in the Bahamas, on New Hope, where they bought a house last year. She returned to Sarasota for another couple of weeks before going westward, and will spend some time here again in the Spring.

Mrs. Thomas J. Murphy, Wellesley, is president of the Big Seven Alumnae group,—graduates of what are sometimes called the "Heavenly Seven." The group, now consisting of forty-four members, meets for luncheon once each month at the Plaza restaurant.

Other officers are: Miss Elizabeth L. Clarke Smith, vice president; Mrs. Henri A. Cousirat, Barnard, secretary-treasurer.

Painters and sculptors of Siesta Key and Bay Island have submitted work in many media, for the second annual Painting and Sculpture Show, sponsored by St. Boniface Church on Siesta Key.

The exhibit will open with a tea from 2 to 5 on Sunday, February 26, and will remain until March 5.

Mrs. C. Victor Williams, chairman for the show, is assisted by Mrs. Raymond M. Oakes, Mrs. O. M. Wells, Mrs. Charles M. Remsen, Mrs. Norman Wright, Mrs. W. C. Coler, Mrs. Edwin A. Barnes, Mrs. R. H. Pierce, Mrs. Edward Colladay, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Adams, Mrs. Jewell Stevens and Mrs. Charles K. Francis.

Work is being judged by Janet Reid Kellogg, painter and sculptor of Bradenton, and Loran Wilford, Ringling Art School instructor. Glenna Finch, painter, and Amalie Wright, sculptor, have charge of hanging.

Ben Stahl will give a demonstration in portrait painting on March 2 at 8 p.m.—the subject, chosen from the audience, to pose and receive the signed portrait.

Helen Protas, Sarasota painter, received first prize in an outdoor art exhibition staged during the last two weeks of January on the sidewalks of St. Armand's Circle by merchants of that area. Murray Lebwohl was in charge of arrangements. Second and third prizes went to Robert Chase and Margaret Sturgis. Elden Rowland, Marilyn Bendell and Dorothy Leech won honorable mentions.

William Rupp, Sarasota architect, won the Commerce Design Award in the Eighth Annual Design Awards Program at the University of Minnesota, over some 600 other entrants. Jurors cited Mr. Rupp's ingenious solution for piecemeal expansion of a bank building, and the simplicity of the plan.

One of the resplendent social affairs of the season was the Opera Gala on Saturday evening, February 18, when the Members' Council of the Ringling Museum of Art took over the opening night of the four-week engagement of the Turnau Opera Company in the Museum's 18th century Asolo Theater.

Under the chairmanship of Robert B. Van Skike Jr., who is in charge of special events for the Council, the evening became a glamorously formal event. After the performance of Rossini's "Cenerentola," for which everyone turned out in his or her best bib and tucker, there was a dinner-dance at the Sarasota Bay Country Club. Mrs. Charles Wooten Jr., the Council's hospitality chairman, took over arrangements at the Club.

"ROMANCING GIRAFFES"

Paintings Of Charles Baskerville

Works of Noted Artist
Acclaimed At Preview
At Palm Beach Gallery

CHARLES BASKERVILLE

CHARLES BASKERVILLE, an eminent American artist who has achieved international fame as a portrait and mural painter, captured the limelight of the Palm Beach art scene in late February when his paintings were previewed at the Palm Beach Art Gallery, 336 Worth Avenue.

The artist, with George E. Vigouroux Jr., director of the gallery, greeted guests at the cocktail preview attended by a distinguished group of Palm Beach and Hobe Sound residents, many of whom are long-time friends of Mr. Baskerville and collectors of his paintings.

During his exhibition in Palm Beach, the New York artist will be a houseguest of the Hon. and Mrs. Arthur Gardner, South Ocean Boulevard.

Paintings by Mr. Baskerville are included in the collections of Mrs. George Headley, Mrs. Sidney Legendre, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sanford, Mrs. Paulding Fosdick, Ambassador and Mrs. Winthrop Aldrich and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Alger, Mrs. Munn Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Benoist, Mr. and Mrs. Felix du Pont Jr., Mrs. Philip Inglehart, Mrs. Crawford Hill, Mrs. Paul Moore, and Mr. and Mrs. William S. Paley, and others.

Notable among his portrait subjects are such prominent personalities as Miss Helen Hayes, the Duchess of Windsor, Bernard Baruch, Richard Rodgers, Colonel Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney and India's Prime Minister Nehru.

The artist's murals, noted for their dynamic simplicity of design and vibrant color, can be seen in the Wall Street Club, the Main Lounge and the Ballroom of the S. S. "America," the Conference Room for the Chief of Staff of the Army Air Force, and in the homes of Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Engelhard, Mr. and Mrs. Wooster Lambert, Mrs. Robert Sherwood, Mrs. Ivor Bruce, Mrs. Harvey Gibson and Mr. Grover Loening, among others.

"RASPUT PRINCELINGS"

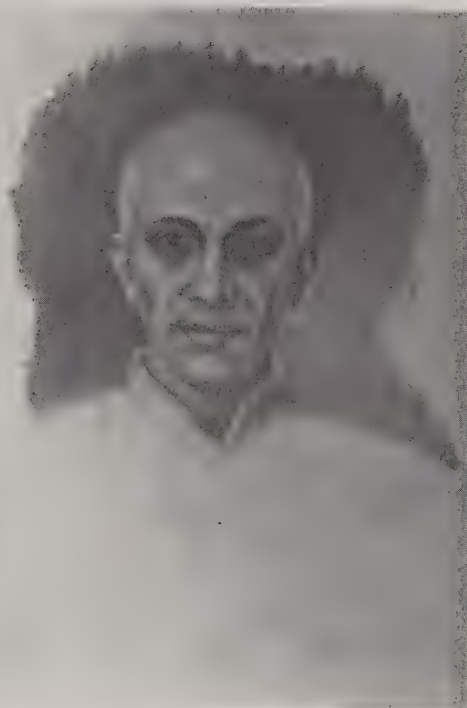

"OUTDOOR HARMONY"

An officer in both World Wars, Mr. Baskerville reached the height of his brilliant military career in the Second World War when, as a lieutenant colonel, he was named Official Portrait Painter of the Army Air Force and was decorated with the Legion of Merit. Previously he had been cited with the Silver Star, the Purple Heart with oak leaf cluster, the Conspicuous Service Cross and four battle clasps on the Victory Medal.

His seventy-two portraits of war heroes and commanders, painted while they were on active battle duty, hang in the Pentagon as a permanent memorial.

Mr. Baskerville, a familiar figure to Palm Beach art enthusiasts through his earlier exhibits at the Society of the Four Arts, has had nine one-man shows in New York and exhibitions at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Chicago Art Institute, the Museum of Modern Art in Washington, D. C., the National Gallery of Art and the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh, among others.

PRIME MINISTER NEHRU OF INDIA

A highlight of his professional career was a private command exhibition at the Viceroy's Palace, New Delhi, India.

The acclaimed artist has painted in twenty-nine countries during his quest for interesting subjects and exotic material for his murals.

In 1949 he flew to Nepal to record on canvas the likenesses of the King and Maharajah of that small mysterious kingdom hidden in the Himalayas.

While there he traveled by foot and stocky Tibetan pony over a rugged mountain trail to the capital city of Katmandu where he painted colorful scenes of medieval pageantry at a royal wedding.

A graduate of Cornell University, Baskerville continued his art studies at the Art Students' League in New York and later at the Academie Julien in Paris.

The Colony Hotel

COMPARABLE TO THE FINEST European hotels, Palm Beach's Colony Hotel has earned the international reputation for being THE place to stay while on Winter holiday. Praised by guests who travel extensively on the Continent, the Colony attracts those to whom it comes highly recommended in its role of focal point for socialites, inter-continental visitors and other distinguished personages.

Lending continental charm are the many touches of old world atmosphere, coupled with modern sophistication which provide the Pool Room, and other areas of the hotel with a sleekness which appeals to the connoisseur.

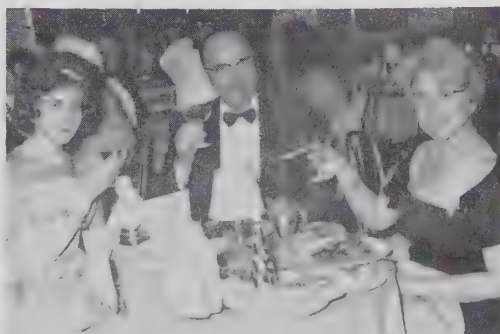

Demonstrative of such subtle elegance is the fact that water glasses are never placed on the dining tables unless requested. The wine list is long and complete. Wine-tasting reached its crest recently when Colony President S. Joseph Tankoos honored Alexis Lichine, reputedly the world's foremost wine authority, at an eagerly attended tasting party.

Both Palm Beachers who frequent The Colony and visitors planning sojourns next month will be delighted by the announcement that Joan Reynolds "Society Songstress" will begin a weeks engagement at the Colony on March twenty-seventh.

In private life Mrs. David Muss, Joan, so well known in Palm Beach is making her first professional appearance in the resort as a singer. She is the daughter of the famous Virginia Pine, the former Mrs. Quentin Reynolds. Her husband, David Muss, is the builder who is responsible for the completion of some of the country's largest shopping plazas.

PONTE VEDRA

BY MARJORY STOUT

FOR CHEF SIDNEY ANVOOTS of the Inn at Ponte Vedra food is no idle pursuit. It is dedication at its most penetrating; Chef Sidney's fanciful delight in food, its creation, its preparation, is an aromatic statement proclaimed in each of his dishes.

He uses both the Escoffier and St. Francis methods in demonstrations before professional groups, but his culinary creativeness shows most clearly when he demonstrates chafing dish cookery and the preparations of various sauces.

At the Inn on Sunday evenings the Candlelight Buffets are masterful strokes of epicurean artistry; the food is enticingly three-dimensional. Sight, aroma and taste, each sense developed individually and then beautifully blended into one gorgeous mouth-watering impact. To pass down the seemingly endless buffet table is to emerge, completely toppled by temptation, bearing a plate that has something of everything on it.

Throughout the Winter season, the weather has been perfect for golf and tennis. The golf course has never been in better playing shape, and the view of it is incredibly lovely. It is a double dividend of pleasure to play on such a course as Ponte Vedra's, one of the finest, against such a backdrop of beauty.

Some of the recent guests at the Inn who have found it delightfully restful and zestful are Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Brand of Urbana, Ohio who are at the Inn for their annual stay. Mr. and Mrs. Brand have been coming to the Inn for over twenty years. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sheehan of Augusta, Ga. were also here; Mrs. Sheehan is one of the best women golfers ever to play at Ponte Vedra. Her scores ranged from 76 to 83 for the entire time that she was here.

Admiral and Mrs. John Davidson of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., were ardent golfers during their stay. Bishop Phillip Hannon enjoyed a few days' respite from his work in Washington, D. C., with his brother William T. Hannon and his wife, also from Washington.

Also here from Washington, D. C., was Herbert Brand of the Seaboard Railroad. Mr. Brand played golf every day during his two week stay at Ponte Vedra and was under 75 for most of his visit.

James Gibbons, sports announcer for the ABC, a frequent guest at the Inn, was here from Washington, D. C., with Ben Maroshek of Bethesda, Md., Art Bowis, also Bethesda, and Frank Smith of Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. John Beach of Dover, Del., stopped for a few days on their way further south and were delighted with the beach, the golf course and the charming atmosphere of the Inn. Mr. Beach is assistant publisher of the Dover State News.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel H. Barrows of Atkinson Depot, N. H., were here also on their way to St. Petersburg where they will stay for a short time before going on to the Barbados. In March, Mr. and Mrs. Barrows will return to the Inn for a more extensive stay.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Beach, Dover, Del.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Harned, their daughter Lee and Susan Perry, a close friend of Lee's, came down from Sea Island for the weekend. Mr. Harned is the general manager of The Cloisters. They joined Murray Stevenson, general manager of the Grand Hotel at Point Clear, Ala. Mr. Harned, Mr. Stevenson and Ponte Vedra's General Manager Luther Grimes were able to enjoy relaxation together as well as the exchange of mutual experience.

Fort Lauderdale Has Many Events

By MARGARET WALKER

NEVER HAS THE WINTER SEASON in Fort Lauderdale been spiced with as many varied ingredients to add zing to the round of social events. Some have centered around nationally-covered sports events, others around visiting musicians, and the biggest of the big parties—the Opera Ball—was inspired by the opera, “Andrea Chenier,” presented ten days later.

A high peak of activity was reached in one week that produced the exciting finish of the St. Petersburg to Fort Lauderdale Ocean Race, with a cocktail party and award dinner at the Lauderdale Yacht Club; a concert featuring pianist Anthony di Bonaventura; the Helen Lee Doherty Challenge Cup Golf Championship at the Coral Ridge Country Club, topped off by the Opera Guild's annual whing ding.

Chronically, the Fort Lauderdale Symphony Orchestra conducted by Mario di Bonaventura, was first of a group of memorable “firsts” for the City. Soloist was Mario's exceptionally talented brother, pianist Anthony, who came here from European triumphs and a highly successful recital at Town Hall in New York. With him was his lovely, blue-eyed, brunette wife, the former Sara Delano Roosevelt, granddaughter of the late President, Franklin D. Roosevelt. On her mother's side she is the granddaughter of the famed Dr. Harvey Cushing of Boston. Her stepfather and mother are Mr. and Mrs. John Hay Whitney.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred di Bonaventura of New York, parents of the talented brothers, were also on hand to hear their sons perform. The concert, outstanding in the history of the orchestra, received an ovation from the crowd that packed War Memorial Auditorium. Mr. di Bonaventura played Beethoven's Concerto in C Minor and Greig's Concerto in A Minor.

Following the concert, the young guest artist was honored at a reception of Pier 66, where several hundred guests had midnight supper and danced until the wee hours.

The next evening yachtsmen and wives from every part of the United States celebrated the finish of the St. Petersburg to Fort Lauderdale ocean race, which was won by the Pipe Dream, owned and skippered by prominent Eastern yachtsman, Walter T. Colquitt, of Greenwich, Conn. Many of the sleek sailboats tied up at the Bahia Mar Yacht Basin, sails unfurled, berthed in double rows. There were twenty-one entries from nearly everywhere—New York, Connecticut, Texas, Indiana, Illinois, as well as Florida.

Flying the LYC flag were the Good Hope, owned by the Club's commodore, E. J. (Dick) Richardson and the Hilaria, owned by Hugh Schadle.

New Yorker, S. A. Long, aboard his well-known Ondine, was first in Class A.

The Lauderdale Yacht Club was the scene of one of the most interesting parties of the year, with commodores of other Florida clubs on hand to celebrate the initial 403-mile race which has replaced the St. Petersburg to Havana run. It was sponsored by the St. Petersburg Yacht Club and the Lauderdale Yacht Club.

At the awards dinner following cocktails the Mayor's Trophy went to E. J. Richardson, whose Good Hope finished first. Both the Commodore Richardson Trophy and the St. Petersburg Yacht Club Trophy were captured by Mr. Colquitt. Other nationally known yachtsmen who won trophies were Thor Ramsing, of Indian River Yacht Club, Greenwich, Conn.; S. A. Long, the Larchmont (N.Y.) Yacht Club; John Powell, St. Petersburg Yacht Club; John Price, Coral Reef Yacht Club; David Cluett, Indian Harbor Yacht Club, Greenwich, Conn.; Ralph Ryder, Senior and Junior, Biscayne Bay Yacht Club; and William Peacock, Gulfstream Sailing Club, Fort Lauderdale.

At the Coral Ridge Country Club, where the Helen Lee Doherty tournament was played, Robert Trent Jones hosted a huge cocktail party the evening before. The noted golf architect, who designed the club's course, flew in from Jamaica in time for the party—and the playing of some excellent golf by the country's top women golfers. Winner was Marlene Stewart Streit of Canada.

Greep and Mrs. Greep; fifth, Miss Alberta Martin and Maxwell Baxter Jr.

Some five hundred members of Fort Lauderdale society attended the Opera Ball—those patrons, sponsors and donors who make possible the presentation of top stars of the Metropolitan Opera Company in Fort Lauderdale.

This year's ball was truly a glittering event, with golden confetti covering the ballroom floor of the Governors' Club Hotel. Themed to the opera, "Andrea Chenier," the ball's decor, planned by Mrs. H. Charles Kersten, wife of the Opera Guild's president, was resplendent with statuary reminiscent of the Palais de Versailles. Great gold standards, gilded bird cages and handsome sconces reflected the grandeur of monarchist France, background of the opera.

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs.

Kersten, and vice presidents, Harry P. Greep and Raymond F. Gier, with Mrs. Greep and Mrs. Gier.

Among the hostesses were Mrs. R. R. Saunders, Mrs. Arthur Ogle, Mrs. Maxwell Baxter, Mrs. J. L. B. Weber, Mrs. Gay Kersten Donahoe, Mrs. H. P. Davock, Mrs. Ray Qualmann and Mrs. Alf Erickson.

ladies were Mrs. John Wrather, Mrs. Alwen Neuharth, Mrs. Carl P. Weidling, Mrs. Russell Carson, Mrs. S. J. Wilson, Mrs. C. B. King, Miss Faustine Lasseter and Mrs. Victor Cannon.

Before the ball there were many cocktail parties and small dinners. Among hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson, who entertained at their apartment in the Four Seasons; Mr. and Mrs. Dean Osborne, who were hosts at their home on Nurmi Drive; and, the Byron Downings, who entertained friends at their Sea Island Drive home. The Alwen Neuharths hosted a dinner party at the Governors' Club Hotel before adjourning to the ballroom.

Commuting constantly between Fort Lauderdale, New York and Port Sewall, Florida in her private plane, petite Patricia Murphy (in private life she's Mrs. James E. Kiernan, widow of a noted Naval architect) came down to cop the coveted American Orchid Society Medallion in Fort Lauderdale's biggest orchid show to date, held in late January at the Armory.

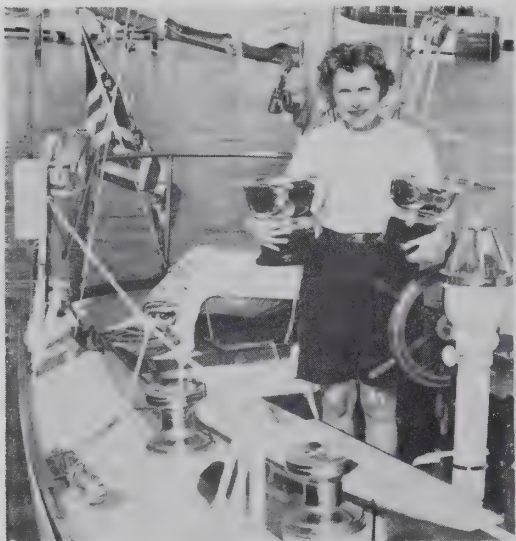

Besides cultivating orchids at her estate near Stuart, Miss Murphy, at the time of her exhibit, had 5,000 poinsettias and more than a thousand roses in bloom in the gardens of her Candlelight Restaurant at Bahia Mar, the big yacht basin in Fort Lauderdale.

Later, her party guests in New York included Hildegard, actress Helen Menken and Mrs. Douglas McArthur. The New York Times magazine devoted two full pages to the decor in her antiques-filled penthouse on Fifth Avenue.

A big gathering of the clan—of Johnson and Johnson pharmaceutical fame—livened the household of Dr. and Mrs. Keith Wold for several weeks.

Elaine Wold's two sisters, Mrs. William Ryan of New Jersey, and Mrs. Richard Stokes of Virginia, were here with Keith Wold's sister, who also married a Johnson—Mrs. Robert W. Johnson of St. Paul, Minn.

The Wolds hosted a large dinner party at the Coral Ridge Yacht Club for their family, which included a cousin, Sheila Johnson, and Dr. Wold's mother, Mrs. Carl Wold.

Graham-Eckes School Has Prominent Alumni

By BEN ROBERTS

NOW THAT The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit has developed A Sense of Values it is likely that he learned them at Graham-Eckes School.

The author of these best-sellers, Sloan Wilson, prepared for college there when the School was located in Daytona Beach, Florida.

Dr. Inez Graham and Miss Evelyn Eckes founded the School in 1926. It was their aim to provide college preparation in the South which would follow the tradition of the older New England academies. Their success in attaining this end is reflected in School alumni who have gone on to, and have been graduated from, the top ranking colleges of this country and Europe. John L. Moore Jr., whose late father was Judge of the Criminal Court of Record of Palm Beach County, was the School's first Rhodes Scholar. He was graduated from Oxford and received his law degree from Harvard. Others have matriculated in French, Spanish, and Italian colleges and universities.

The School has a girls' unit and a boys' unit. Graham-Eckes became a boarding school in 1936 and moved to Palm Beach in 1941 to occupy an estate purchased from the heirs of the late Otto Kahn. The School is incorporated not for profit.

The ocean-front campus has been extended to the lake in the past decade and now comprises eight and one-half acres. The girls' school is located in the former Kahn villa, now called Garibaldi Graham House on the east of County Road, and the boys' unit has its headquarters in the Grace Stair House on the west campus. The student body is limited by charter to 100 pupils. Dr. Graham believes that encouragement and close guidance are aids for developing intellectual and moral discipline in today's youth. She insists that pupils work to capacity, always being responsible for doing their best. Special attention is paid to the maxim, "That with privilege goes responsibility."

The sea borders the east shore of Graham-Eckes School. Here the former Otto Kahn villa, which is now the Garibaldi Graham house and houses the Girls' School, reflects the changing tides and moods of the Atlantic Ocean.

The Quadrangle at Garibaldi Graham House shown here is the scene of daily convocations of the student body and of annual Class Night ceremonies. It is the heart of the School.

The spirit of achievement is manifested in the interest that the students in the several forms show in winning such prizes at the annual prize day as the Estela Menocal de Lobo Cup, the Paula Uihlein Prize, the H. Winfield Chapin Music Cup, and the Elsie Bingham Prior Cup, to name a few. The numbers of Phi Beta Kappa alumni which the School has produced is an indication that these lessons became a part of their lives.

Improvements to the original North County Road estate have not changed its basic character, although they have made possible its more efficient administration as a school. The Prehler Memorial, named for Pamela Prehler of Miami, who was killed in an automobile accident during her senior year, is a link between the Palm Beach of an older time and of a newer era. For the most part, materials used in its construction were salvaged by Dr. Graham from the razed Dodge villa "Playa Riente" and combined with new structural elements to create a music studio reminiscent of the 16th century Italy. The Ashley-McGivern Hall bears the names of the late Dean of the Faculty, Rose Bishop Ashley, and Dean of Girls, Vina McGivern, respectively. It is contemporary in design and provides dining facilities for the faculty and students as well as a residence for the headmistresses. The magnificent collection of 18th century English furniture and porcelains, which Charles B. Wrightsman gave to the School, is housed here and affords a setting for formal receptions.

Graham-Eckes cultural impact on Palm Beach has been significant. The School has cooperated closely with the Society of the Four Arts, the Palm Beach Round Table, and other artistic and patriotic groups. Of itself, it has brought distinguished speakers to the community through its weekly Wednesday forum programs. General James A. Van Fleet, Sir Roland Robinson, M.P., and Rolf Kaltenborn, Ph. D., are representative of the speakers who have honored the School with their presence. Graham-Eckes students are imbued with such qualities as acceptance of responsibility, respect for achievement, and regard for integrity by means of these forum programs and through the effort which Dr. Graham makes to bring interesting persons to the campus at frequent intervals during the 33-week school year.

Recognizing that a school is only as strong as its faculty, Dr. Graham has given her students the advantages of small classes, individual guidance, and strong remedial programs. By using testing programs which reflect local progress against the national norm, the School has been able to assist students to make the best use of their talents and time. College Entrance Examination Board requirements and examinations are expected of both fifth and sixth form students while Secondary Education Board standards are prerequisite in the applicable forms.

The south facade of the Garibaldi Graham house forms the background for the Olympic pool at Graham-Eckes School where several students have trained to win swimming and diving championships.

Graham-Eckes School has always enjoyed an enrollment representative of a cross section of American and foreign youth. In addition to Cuba, South America, and Thailand, the Continent has been represented in the student body from time to time. Graham-Eckes is in its thirty-fifth year and enjoys the enviable reputation of placing each one of its graduates in college.

Sailing is a popular activity at Graham-Eckes. Well-equipped dock and hauling facilities on Lake Worth provide facilities for a fleet of sailboats. Swimming and tennis provide further recreational outlets to balance the demanding study program. Athletics are not pursued as an end in themselves, but rather as an adjunct of health and of a well-rounded environment.

As the School has grown from the sea to the lake and has brought its enrollment to strength, the facilities for housing the married and single masters have been constantly augmented. One of the three houses for faculty living is a memorial to Captain James Eugene Kiernan, U. S. N., and was given by his widow, Patricia Murphy Kiernan, Sewall's Point, Florida. Another house is named for a school benefactress and friend from Daytona Beach, the late Essie Lee Jones, and the third bears the name of Wells Hively, who served for many years as head of the School's music program.

The School's term is divided into three eleven-week periods. The Christmas holiday marks the end of the first trimester, and Class Day exercises are held in March at the conclusion of the twenty-second week of the school year.

Because many School families do not remain through the academic year until June graduation, they are given this opportunity each March to take part in an important event in the school life of their children. This year, for the first time, the usual three-day Class Week program is being telescoped into a Parents' Day, which will include sports, social activities, and the formal convocation ceremony in which the graduating class is presented and a notable speaker is heard.

The spiritual life of the non-denominational School centers in the Semmes Chapel on the west campus. Here several alumni have returned to be married. The Protestant Episcopal Church of Bethesda by the Sea is the setting for the baccalaureate services each year.

A Board of Managers of which Sir Roland Robinson, M. P., is chairman and a Board of Overseers of which Thaddeus Riddle Trout, Devon, Pennsylvania, and Palm Beach, is presiding officer assist the headmistresses in the government of the School.

Other members of the Board of Overseers are: G. Walcott Trofast-Gillette, Garden City, L. I. and Salisbury, Conn.; The Rev. Tage Teisen, D.D., Old Bennington, Vt. and Palm Beach; Dr. Chevalier Jackson, Philadelphia, Pa. and Palm Beach; Charles Baker, Charlottesville, Va. and Palm Beach; Dr. Russell Cecil, New York and Palm Beach; Winston

Dr. Inez Graham and Miss Evelyn Eckes, the founders of Graham-Eckes School, are shown here with the Hon. Stanton Griffis following his address to a graduating class.

TIPS on TOPS at the SHOPS

SYMPHONY OF GEMS composes a magnificent necklace of cabachon Ceylon sapphires, oval cut and graduated in size. Each stone is framed in garlands of diamonds made of round, marquise and pear-shaped stones. A triumph in jewel design by Cartier, Worth Avenue.

SILK RIBBON HAND KNIT costumes are blithe travelers which never need an iron. Barcarolle silk ribbon in gray and white makes a charming costume for resort or travel. Simple dress with shaped, crescent neckline worn under a brief jacket with new stand-away collar. An original design by Beatrice Morgan, Worth Avenue.

MATCH A CASHMERE CARDIGAN to a favorite beaded handbag—that's the latest innovation in costume coordination. Bright hued beaded bags in Paisley design are matched with silk floss embroidery on white cashmere sweaters by Estelle Parker, Worth Avenue.

ALLIGATOR PRINTED SILK FASHIONS an ultra smart shoe. It's good looks will complement many costumes. Softer looking than real alligator, the classic pumps give the same effect. Shown at Delman Shoe Salon, Worth Avenue.

GO DANCING IN LEMON YELLOW chiffon with full, swirling skirt topped with fitted bodice and cowl neckline which flies far and away at the back. As unmistakably Paris as the Eiffel Tower. Capped with a new coiffure by Mr. Arnold, the wearer will be the belle of the ball. Dress and coiffure by Elizabeth Arden Salon, Worth Avenue.

CARTRIDGE PLEATS just at the hipline give mobility to a charming white chiffon ball gown ablaze with yellow poppies. The printed chiffon stole adds to the floating, dreamy look of the gown. Bonwit-Teller, Worth Avenue.

BLAZERMANSHIP in the British tradition. Navy or black light-weight flannel tailored in double-breasted style with side vents and narrow, peaked lapels. Men love blazers and are wearing them more in the evenings than ever before. At Sulka and Company, Worth Avenue.

EVENING SOPHISTICATION with a vivid interplay of values appears in a Sophie ball gown of peau de soie, banded at the bodice with black and gray which cascades down the back of an otherwise white skirt. Saks Fifth Avenue, Worth Avenue.

SWIMSHAPE BY THE OUNCE—a silken sheath of the new figure controlling helenca nylon. Mated with a sheer, transparent beach coat of matching print, fashioned of chiffon or silk organza, the ensemble brings elegance to the beaches. Lido Beach Shop, on the Ocean just south of Worth Avenue.

INDISPENSABLE FLATS, without which no wardrobe is complete, now come in many color combinations. One of the most popular combines white vamp and toe with other colors and is called the Granada. Kornhauser Shoe Salon, Worth Avenue.

BRIGHT AND FRESH as azalia time—bright pink blossoms on white surah silk made a pretty dress with easy skirt and tiny sleeves. Matching azalia pink cashmere cardigan is satin trimmed and cropped at the waistline. Scott's Worth Avenue.

BLUSH PINK SATIN is teamed with moire of the same shade in a gala evening costume of elegance. Pink satin basque top reaches to the hipline from which falls a full gathered moire skirt. The coat combines moire and satin in the Roarin' Twenties mood. Sara Fredricks, Royal Poinciana Plaza.

HATS ARE BACK in fashion and men are abreast of the style. Ventilated braid hats with snap brims in smart colors of turf, black and olive green add color with crushed silk bands. Frank Brothers, Worth Avenue.

LITTLE GIRLS' DRESSES, some organdy, some nice starchy cotton—all as fresh as the morning, attractively accented with appliqued motifs of flowers, boats and animals. Sailor blue and red seem to be the most popular trim. Shehadi's, Worth Avenue.

AMONG THE MANY TREASURES for inveterate collectors, there is an unusually fine George III Tea Pot and stand in solid silver, hallmarked London 1794, by Wakelin and Garrard. The term "solid silver" is used advisedly because "sterling" was not then in use. Douglas Lorie, Inc., Worth Avenue.

MAGNIFICENT LITTLE ITALIAN KNIT suits, some of overblouse and skirt, others of dress and coat. Especially chic is a white and elderberry dress worn under a straight-line matching coat. Always ready to go a-journeying. Martha's Worth Avenue.

PINK DIAMOND SOLITAIRE RING set in gold with shanks of baguette emerald and diamonds. Probably the largest pink diamond of comparable color and quality ever registered in gem books, and quite properly named "Royal Rarity"—Van Cleef and Arpels, Worth Avenue.

COLORS OF THE SUNSET have been captured in a long dance dress. Pinks, yellows, orange-y reds and even a streak of mauve in abstract latticed plaids. The news is at the hips where all the fullness gathers, front and back are apron smooth and flat—At McDonald's in the Biltmore Hotel.

SUGAR AND SPICE and everything nice—that's what little girls are dressed in. Sugar frosted white organdie, spiced with pipings of red make a charmingly simple and effective party dress. Lullabye, Worth Avenue.

DIMINUTIVE SIZES for the shorter figure in an entire resort wardrobe. Costumes of coat and printed chiffon cocktail dress do double duty with an additional tailored frock to match the coat—a whole jet-paced weekend can be well dressed with these three pieces—Silhouette, Worth Avenue.

SLACKS ARE HABIT FORMING. On pair leads to a collection—especially if made of dopppone silk by Emilio Pucci. Worn with a tie silk put-over in matching color, brilliantly patterned, it creates an eye-stopping costume. Imported by Winona Hunt, Worth Avenue.

SWING-RITE TO BETTER GOLF. A training aid which enables the golfer to develop maximum power with minimum body movement in a confined area and does it as effectively as many hours spent on the practice tee. Golfers say its terrific. It comes from Abercrombie and Fitch, Royal Poinciana Plaza.

THE SMALL SHOULDER CAPE and French jacquette in white jasmine mink are high fashion for evening this season—and no wonder. Nothing could be softer, more feminine and romantic for glamorous Palm Beach evenings. Selections available from the collection of fine furs at J. J. Jonas, 189 Bradley Place.

CULOTTES HAVE RETURNED with sophistication. No longer just an old divided skirt, they are tailored with cleverness and are really good looking. Coronado green culottes with wraparound front panel walks with freedom but continues to look like a skirt. Ladd's, Royal Poinciana Plaza.

MAINTENANCE SUPERB, applied to fine furs, is an important part of ownership. Expert cleaning, glazing and repairing is offered here by Palm Beach Furriers, South County Road.

NASSAU BLOSSOMS OUT

William Roberts

His Excellency the Governor, Sir Robert Stapledon, K.C.M.G., C.B.E., congratulates Koji Watanabe of Japan, the winner of the international tennis tournament held at French Leave, Eleuthera, in aid of the new medical clinic at Governor's Harbour.

By NANCY DAVENPORT

ALWAYS PICTURESQUE, NASSAU blossomed out with all its traditional British splendor when His Excellency the Governor, Sir Robert Stapledon, opened a new session of the Bahamas House of Assembly.

Attired in his elaborate uniform of office with plumed hat, medals and the customary saber, the Governor generated dignity fitting of the occasion as he inspected the guard of honor, composed of members of the Royal Hampshire Regiment and the Bahamas Police Force.

Lining both sides of Bay Street and around Rawson Square were swarms of residents and tourists craning to see and to hear all of the ceremony. The Bahamas Police Force band was at its best as it gave forth with "God Save the Queen" and other meaningful compositions.

In the increasingly popular Out Islands, one of the most attractive and comfortable retreats is French Leave at Governor's Harbour, Eleuthera. There you can partake of unsupervised entertainment free of overly eager professional "organizers." Craig Kelly, owner-director, has seen to it that his establishment has ideal surroundings — powdery sands, lush tropical gardens, crystalline waters and an elegant hotel.

This was the setting for a recent house-party attended by the Governor, his aunt Lady Stapledon and his A.D.C., Commander Norman Quill. The occasion was a series of international exhibition tennis matches to raise funds for a new medical clinic at Eleuthera. In the tournament were six junior champions representing four nations, brought together by Kelly and Edward Herr, director of the Orange Bowl Junior Tennis Championships in Miami Beach.

Watching a show of excellent tennis technique, especially by Japan's Koji Watanabe who won the tournament, were a number of other Nassau notables, including the Chief Justice of the Bahamas, Mr. Justice Campbell; Sir Roland Symonette, Leader for the Government in the House of Assembly, and Lady Symonette; Peggy and Dennis Hickman, managers of the Pilot House Club; and Patrick Broome, right hand man for the Iver Bryces who Winter in Nassau.

From Hatchet Bay Plantation on the bank side of Eleuthera, where he is a vice president of the Harrisville Company, came Mr. and Mrs. Philip Potter. Dr. and Mrs. A. Duane Beam of Grosse Pointe, Mich., were back at their Winter home on Eleuthera for the tournament weekend. Dr. Beam is a noted eye surgeon and a consultant at Rassin Clinic in Nassau.

Hobby Horse Hall, which had its grand opening early in January, received its first visit from the Governor and Lady Stapledon recently when they were guests of Dr. Raymond Sawyer, managing director of Raceco, Ltd., and Mrs. Sawyer for buffet luncheon at the clubhouse. Also in the Governor's party were his aunt, his A.D.C., his sister-in-law Miss Radford, and Mrs. Harold Johnson of Nassau. Sir Roland and Lady Symonette and Racing Commission Chairman Peter Graham and his wife were also members of the luncheon party. They were joined by two of Raceco's shareholders from Florida, Noland Johnson of Miami and William Wright of Coral Gables, with Mrs. Wright.

Holding forth at a distinguished gathering on his predictions for the day's races is Dr. Raymond Sawyer (far left), managing director of Raceco, Ltd., owners of Hobby Horse Hall. His attentive listeners include (left to right) His Excellency the Governor, Sir Robert Stapledon, K.C.M.G., C.B.E., William Wright of Coral Gables, Fla., and Noland Johnson of Miami. Mr. Wright and Mr. Johnson are shareholders of Raceco, Ltd.

One of the most eagerly anticipated openings of the season was held in its usual sedate manner — without grandiose fanfare. The Bahamian Club is once again aglitter and drawing the elite to try their luck in the casino or to savour the superb cuisine or to twirl to the danceable music. Discovered there were Sir Ian and Lady Mactaggart of Hampstead, London, who are in Nassau to settle the estate of his father, the late Sir John Mactaggart. Also on hand were the Morgan Reynolds, the Tony Ricketts, the Green Annans, the Stewart Websters and the lovely Lady (Greta) Oakes.

Lady Oakes is also fast becoming one of Nassau's busiest hostesses. Among her latest gatherings was an informal luncheon party given in honor of actor Robert Q. Lewis. Mr. Lewis was in Nassau to rehearse for "Gazebo," the first offering of the Playhouse which opened February seventh at the British Colonial Hotel. Something new this season, the Playhouse is attracting many of Nassau's society to its weekly productions.

Inaugurations being the style, the Edward St. Georges christened their new Lyford Cay house with a large and lively midnight supper party. Guests swarmed in and out of the downstairs living room and the terrace where a calypso band lured a group of eager chachas. Showing considerable talent along those lines was Victoria Campbell, an adept pupil of her father, the Chief Justice of the Bahamas.

Among the early arrivals was Mrs. Frederick Sigrist, whose daughter, Bobo, has just celebrated a twenty-first birthday. Mrs. Dorothy Killam, was also in a group of first comers. R. H. (Bobby) Symonette, Deputy Speaker of the House of Assembly, and his wife, Diane, chatted with various guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Armour of New York and Nassau are among the island's most prominent visitors. The Armours have spent many Winter seasons in Nassau, frequently as guests of the Bahamas Country Club. Mr. Armour has served the United States Government as Under-Secretary of State and as ambassador to Spain, Argentina, Chile and Guatemala.

Lady Huggins of London, England admires the garden at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKinney, on Prospect Ridge, Nassau, where she paid a visit. Lady Huggins, who is the former first Lady of Jamaica, is the founder and life president of the Jamaica Federation of Women, and vice chairman of the Conservative Commonwealth Council.

Discussing their mutual friends from Long Island were Mrs. Stephen Briggs and Charles Hardy. The Hardys were guests of Mrs. Sally Thorne at the John Bells' Way-A-Way. The Briggs' push-button Lyford Cay house has been photographed and written up as a masterpiece of design in a trade journal, "Florida Architecture."

Serene and regal, Mrs. Donald McKinney relaxed in the formal drawing room upstairs with a platter of the sumptuous buffet. She was following doctor's orders and taking things easy after a long seige with a stubborn virus. The McKinneys were accompanied by Mrs. McKinney's mother, Lady Huggins, the former First Lady of Jamaica. Lady Huggins has been active in the campaign for women's suffrage in the colonies and is founder of the Jamaica Federation of Women.

The St. Georges barely had time to warm up their new house before leaving for New York where Mr. St. George conferred with the United Nations. He is now at his post in Beirut, Lebanon, where he serves as a legal advisor for the U.N.

One of the most honoured of Nassau's Winter residents is Norman Armour, former U.S. ambassador to Spain and various Latin American countries and one-time Under-Secretary of State. His charming wife is the former Princess Myra Koudacheff.

Among other international visitors, Nassau has welcomed the Sven Meyers of Oslo, Norway. Mr. Meyer is a partner in the P. Meyer shipping company, one of Norway's largest. They arrived aboard the Olad II from Eleuthera's Cotton Bay Club. From Quebec, Canada, for a sunny Winter vacation at the Robert Q. Lewis, stage and television personality, was a luncheon guest at the Lake Cunningham home of Lady Greta Oakes during his stay in Nassau prior to his appearance in the comedy, "The Gazebo," which opened an eight-week theatrical season at the Nassau Playhouse February 7th in the British Colonial Hotel. Lady Oakes has long been interested in promoting theatrical productions in the Bahamas capital and has handled roles in several plays.

Mrs. Powel was a houseguest of long-time friend Mrs. John L. Barnard, wife of the American Consul-General in Nassau.

Some 2,600 Norge appliance dealers and their wives arrived in groups of 260 for sales conventions in cosmopolitan Nassau. With the group, which brought some of their newest appliances for display at the British Colonial Hotel, were Robert Quayle, president of Norge Sales Corp., Chicago, Ill.; Judson

A touch of Broadway came to Nassau on February 7 when the British Colonial Playhouse opened with "The Gazebo", starring Robert Q. Lewis.

Producer of this and the many fine plays to come to the 500-seat theater, located on the mezzanine floor of the British Colonial Hotel, will be the well-known Florida producer Owen Phillips. Mr. Phillips, who operates the Coconut Grove Playhouse near Miami, announced that he has such outstanding productions scheduled as:

"Marriage-Go-Round" with John Baragrey and Vivian Vance.

"Two For The Seesaw" starring Zachary Scott.

"The Roberto Iglesias Ballet", famous Spanish Ballet.

"Golden Fleecing" with Dick Shawn.

...and many other hits from Broadway.

George W. Gill Jr., president of Gill Hotels and operator of the British Colonial, pointed out that "there is a great demand for an island activity during the hours between sundown and 'nightclub-time', and the Playhouse seemed to be the perfect answer. It will be the social center of the island.

"We expect not only patronage by the island inhabitants and tourists, but also by people from South Florida. There has been some discussion with the airlines about having a special 'show-plane' to bring theatergoers over to the island for dinner and the show.

"This will be the first international show-plane we know of in this country."

Robert Q. Lewis, on his way to Nassau for rehearsal of the play, stopped over in Fort Lauderdale to attend a special press luncheon held at the Yankee Clipper Hotel, one of four Gill hotels located in Fort Lauderdale.

ENGAGEMENTS and WEDDINGS

THE CHURCH OF BETHESDA BY-THE-SEA was the setting of two late January weddings, that of the Rev. Dr. Tage Teisen and Miss Margaret Rebecca Taylor, and of Charles Hill Jones Jr., and Miss Hope Haskell.

The Very Rev. Chester B. Emerson, retired dean of the Cathedral of Cleveland, Ohio officiated at the wedding of Dr. Teisen and Miss Taylor, which was attended by a small gathering of long-time friends and parishioners of the Church of Bethesda-by-the-Sea where Dr. Teisen had served as Rector for the past twenty-one years.

The bride, who was escorted by her brother, Will Allen Taylor, was attired in a dress of honey beige satin damask, fashioned on princess lines with a mutation mink-trimmed jacket, and was worn with a small fitted cap of matching satin damask, appliqued with tinted blossoms. She carried a spray of orchids.

The bride's attendants were here sister-in-law, Mrs. Will Allen Taylor, who was matron of honor, and Mrs. Antoinette Johnson. Mrs. Taylor wore a silver-blue satin sheath, and Mrs. Johnson, a silver gray surah. Both had matching hats and accessories and orchid bouquets.

The ushers were the bride's brothers, Jack Murray Taylor and Frank Allison Taylor, and Blaine Webb and Robert McCoskry Butt. Harold Wilson Sweatt was best man. Assisting in the ceremony as servers were Will Gonzales, Dr. Teisen's godson, and George Reese. Mark Taylor, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer.

Miss Ruth Shockley, a personal friend of both the bride and bridegroom, was the organist, playing the traditional Lohengrin "Wedding March," and Mendelsohn's "Recessional."

White carnations and lilies were the flowers used on the main altar, which was lighted with High Altar candles. The wedding reception was held at the Manalapan Club. The couple will reside at 1507 North Ocean Way. In the late Spring, they plan a wedding trip to Europe.

The Rev. Lisle B. Caldwell, assistant Rector of the Church of Bethesda-by-the-Sea officiated at the wedding of Miss Hope Haskell, daughter of Amory Lawrence Haskell, of South Ocean Boulevard and Red Bank, N. J., and the late Mrs. Annette Tilford Haskell, and Charles Hill Jones Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hill Jones of New York and Rock Hedge Farm, Bluemont, Va.

Following the ceremony at the Church, a reception was held at the Haskell home.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, chose a dress of ivory peau de soie, made with a fitted bodice finished with a bateau neckline, elbow length sleeves, and a bouffant skirt with new back fullness, terminating in a short train. She wore a veil of heirloom rosepoint lace, arranged in cap fashion, and carried a bouquet of white orchids.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Alessandro de Tomaso, of Modena, Italy was her matron of honor, Miss Mary Elizabeth Gamwell, of Middletown, N. J., was maid of honor, and Mrs. David P. McKissock, of Bedford, N. Y. was bridesmaid. All the attendants wore identical blue and white organdy dresses, and carried bouquets of yellow roses and yellow freeaias.

William B. Warren was best man and the ushers were Amory L. Haskell Jr., of Red Bank, N. J., Archer Joes, of Wise, Va., Van Dyke Jones, of Harrisburg, Pa., William Rinaldo Dorsey III, of Baltimore, Md., R. Bland Lee V, of Chicago, Ill., and James C. Hamilton and Hamilton Southworth, of New York City. Adam L. Decker was organist.

Mrs. Jones made her debut in New York and was a member of the Junior Assemblies. She is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgan Tilford, of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Amory Haskell, of New York and Red Bank. The bride is a graduate of Foxcroft School and Bryn Mawr College.

Mr. Jones is a graduate of Groton School, and the University of Virginia where he was a member of DKE. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Walter Jones of New York City, and the late Dr. and Mrs. George Ben Johnston, of Richmond, Va. He is with the New York investment house of Wood Struthers & Company.

After a short wedding trip the young couple will make their home in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Nash, of Deal, N. J., and Palm Beach have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ronnielynn, to William A. Potter, the son of Mrs. Aaron Potter of New York City and the late Mr. Potter. The prospective bride is a graduate of the Kent Place School and Finch College. She also attended Wheaton College and is now a student at the New York Institute of Fine Arts.

Mr. Potter was graduated from Williams College and attended Columbia Graduate School of Business. He is a member of the New York Stock Exchange and a partner in the firm of Neuberger and Berman. Mr. Potter is also a member of the Quaker Ridge Country Club and the City Athletic Club in New York. The couple plan to be married in April.

A late Summer wedding is planned for Miss Margaret Marie Hannah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Hannah, of Chicago, Ill., and Golf View Road, Palm Beach, and Daniel Douaire, son of Mrs. George F. Douaire Jr., Chicago and the late Mr. Douaire.

The bride-to-be attended Palm Beach Private School and is a senior at Vassar. Mr. Douaire is a graduate of Northwestern Law School and is now practicing law in Chicago.

Miss Hannah made her debut at the Passavant Cotillion in Chicago and her Palm Beach debut with a group of her friends at the Everglades Club.

guests of Mr. Hale. The Ambassador and his wife journeyed to Miami with Mr. Hoyt to be his houseguest before returning for an extended visit at The Towers.

Mr. Hale’s daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Walsh, flew down from New York City for the opening.

A near one hundred per cent occupancy for the month of January set the record since the opening of this magnificent hotel which dominates the Palm Beach skyline, and February’s reservations will top last year’s.

This exciting promise found many seasonal and year ’round residents returning to their Towers apartments. Coming from New York City were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Wien. Mr. Wien was the subject of a most enlightening two-page spread in Look magazine the week of January 31. Joining them from Atlanta, Ga., for a Towers vacation, were Mr. Wien’s brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney A. Wien.

GATHERED AT THE Palm Beach Biltmore Hotel are many American notables and members of the international social set.

Referring to their stay here as "our Winter houseparty on a grandiose scale," they meet friends from all parts of the world to enjoy the opulent luxury that does not intrude on personal privacy when desired.

With its high ceilings, crystal chandeliers, and 'old-world' elegance enlivened by its new decor the Biltmore is now at the height of its second social season under the ownership of the Hotel Corporation of America.

The new Cocktail Lounge and Coffee House draw large groups, and down on the lower level of the Hotel many frequent the Rib Room where the roast beef is carved before the diner's eyes.

As for outdoor activities guests are seen daily on the four tennis courts, putting greens, shuffleboard courts, swimming pools, on the Cabana Terrace, or sunbathing in the solariums.

For those who love beach club atmosphere there is the Sun and Surf Club on the ocean equipped with all facilities, where one can brave the waves, or swim in the pool, lunch on the patio, or keep fit at the health studio.

This is managed by Dimtri Spasoff who holds several degrees in physio-therapy. Seen lunching with him in the patio recently, at the Sun and Surf, was Ed Sullivan, and before that Peter Lawford and Frank Sinatra.

Under strict-medical supervision this health club offers physio-therapy and hydro-therapy, salt baths, massage, and gymnasium facilities not only for the guests of the Biltmore Hotel but to Winter residents, and Palm Beach visitors as well.

Evenings at the Biltmore are equally exhilarating.

Ruby Newman's Society orchestra fills the Florida Room every evening, and enhances each Wednesday and Saturday night galas with special attractions such as top-flight talent.

Devotees of Latin American rhythms also find a haven in the Florida Room with Tommy Ayala, featured member of Ruby Newman's orchestra, who adds an authentic quality to this portion of the festivities with his accomplished guitar playing and appealing songs, many his own compositions.

The sleek 113-footer Jo-Ho-So IV, owned by Mrs. Joseph Mellon is berthed at the Biltmore Docks with Mr. and Mrs. William F. Steinberg aboard. Also on board are some friends of the Steinbergs, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frank, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blumberg, all of Huntington Woods, Mich. Mrs. Steinberg is the daughter of Mrs. Mellon, who is spending the season at the Biltmore.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Sensenbrenner of Neenah, Wis., are on their palatial yacht Heavy Moon for the Winter.

On the Blue Horizon, also berthed at the Biltmore Docks, are the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chalk of New York City, who are here for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bergen, of New York City, flew down for a short stay at the Hotel and plan to return later. Mr. Bergen is the son of Admiral John J. Bergen.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sullivan, of Spring Lake, N.J., were here to participate in the fishing tournaments and to spend some time with friends, Jim Bishop the columnist, and TV star Jack Paar. The Sullivans are annual guests at the Biltmore.

Canadian visitors vacationing at the Biltmore included: Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Magnan of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Alan Banks of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. B. Sadowski of Toronto; Mrs. Eva Morris of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Pollack and family from Quebec; Mrs. Herbert Lowe of Toronto.

THE SEASON is at its height at the Lido Biltmore Club at Sarasota, Florida the best season ever for this exclusive resort that ranks as one of Florida's finest.

From all over the country are coming those who have been at the Lido Biltmore Club before, and know how much its atmosphere of gracious relaxation adds to their enjoyment of Florida's fabled sun, sand, and sea.

And there are many new faces among the guests, too—people meeting for the first time the Lido Biltmore Club, and its staff, headed by genial Floyd Alford Jr., and learning how wonderful a holiday can be.

For, on its own private beach on the Gulf of Mexico, the Lido Biltmore is delightfully secluded—yet at the same time convenient to every kind of attraction, as, for example, the fine golf courses only a very short drive away.

The cuisine created in the domain of Chef Zamboni and his assistant Bill Smith is superb, and the wonderful chef's extraordinary buffets are one of the high points.

Maitre-D' Brady is back in the dining room, and in the beautiful Lorelei Room Paul presides over the preparation of the guests' favorite cocktails.

For dancing, there is the Starlight Terrace, for swimming, the Gulf just a few steps away, even tennis courts, for those preferring a more strenuous relaxation.

The beach luncheons are extremely popular in balmy weather, and another feature of life at the Lido Biltmore Club are the fascinating style shows held frequently in the Lorelei Room.

NASSAU NEW PROVIDENCE.
With reference to the annexed forwarding of the export of the Bahamas, our Special Agent and Commissioner, a small colony.
—Nassau at the present moment is a point of very great interest; indeed, being the head-quarters of the Anglo-Confederate blockade activity, and at no time, I presume, has its harbour shown so much activity as now. The outpouring of steamships, and land forces, always with her light-armed reinforcements, is a sight, and, I judge, their chief motive of action that have, in the second place, the Federal cruisers of Wilmington. The course taken, the blockade

States to Naamán strategies about fifty hours, but then these fifty hours are brought up as a moment that a message of fifty hours would be a promising. From the time of less or a few hours later, Wilmington, to the time of sighting Naamán and getting into British waters, these adventurous craft are never safe from being overwhelmed by a Northern man-of-war. Many a feat of heroism has been displayed by the plucky Englishmen who command them, and I have known the crew of a vessel being chased and fired on for an entire day, only to answer given in reply was to display the British ensign, and then to retire.

strictly speaking, violating the neutrality which her Majesty's Government has proclaimed; but for all that, we Englishmen may well be proud of the heroic shown by our countrymen, who set at defiance the guns of the Federals, and turn a blockaded harbour into an open port. Nelson is the point whence most of the blockadeurs start with the cargoed despatch to the Southern Confederacy, and it is here that they return with the bales of sea Island and Upland cotton, which they have obtained in exchange for the rifles, blankets, and shoes so much needed by the

War Between the States
Brought Sleepy Village
Great Prosperity

BY BILL WINGET

RAMMED TO THE GUNWALES with a cargo of gunpowder, the blockade runner eased her way over the bar outside Nassau Harbour, then bent on full sail and pointed her bow north-northwest. The destination was the Charleston, South Carolina, harbor, where Yankee warships patrolled, waiting to blow the vessel out of the water with a single, well-placed shot into her gunpowder cargo.

The time was 1863 — an era when daring, hard-eyed ship's captains piled up fortunes in a few months by running war materials under the guns of the Union blockade to keep the tottering Confederate war machine on its feet.

Many a captain — owning nothing more than a boat and the breeches he stood in — found himself wealthy after a few successful trips. But many others weren't so lucky. Some were blown into a fine, red mist when Yankee gunboats lobbed a ball into their gunpowder-laden craft. Other seamen were captured and spent the remainder of the Civil War in the filthy, rat-infested Yankee prison hulks. Blockade running was a game with big stakes and it took big men to play the game.

But thoughts of death and imprisonment were far from the minds of the two figures standing on the deck. They were the captain of the blockade-runner leaving Nassau and Heros von Brocke, a ramrod-straight Prussian cavalry officer on his way to fight for the Confederate forces.

Little did they know that within four days they would be involved in a hair-raising game of hide-and-seek that for suspense would top the gaudiest tales of blood-and-thunder fiction.

Tonight, however, they stood staring into the blackness occasionally glancing up at the ghostly sails outlined against the stars. They talked in low voices of Nassau, the booming, brawling haven for blockade runners they had just left.

Nassau had seen bloody, colorful days during the reign of the pirates, followed by the era of shipwrecking. But serving as a jumping off point for blockade runners slipping past the screen of Northern warships guarding Confederate ports was something new. It had turned the sleepy little seafaring village into a gushing geyser of prosperity.

True, the war was "over there," where the forces of North and South reeled and staggered across the face of the United States leaving behind a path of smoldering destruction and broken bodies. Nevertheless, it was a real war in the Bahamas, too.

Soon after the War Between the States began, Nassau, just 180 miles from the American mainland, became the South's lifeline of supply. Britain was neutral, but the Bahamas had many common ties with their Southern neighbors.

Desperate for supplies, the South encouraged the blockade runners' activities. Their success, in the opinion of many historians, prolonged the struggle for many months.

Heros von Brocke's journey to Nassau in the Summer of 1863 came at the height of the blockade-running era.

In 1861, the Bahamas Government had completed a magnificent hotel — the Royal Victoria — designed to attract “a goodly number of valetudinarians (sickly persons) who would like to spend the Winter here.” However, the hotel’s visitors during the Civil War were of a more robust spirit and constitution than the Bahamian Government had in mind.

They were red-blooded, Rhett Butler-types looking for any adventure that would turn a pretty penny. Overnight Nassau became a land seething with intrigues, spies, counter-spies, agents and cotton traders. Nassau Harbour swarmed with sailing ships and steamers — the great “sealift” for gold and glory was under way.

President Lincoln ordered an "effective blockade (of Southern ports) be set up," but as the "boys in blue" closed port after port, enterprising Bahamians and Confederates found new methods of entry. It was a desperate game of chance with death or gold — and sometimes both — as the reward.

Samuel Whiting, American Consul in Nassau during much of the war, reported to the Secretary of State, "Nassau is as secessionist as any Southern State, aye any three Southern States."

Rankled by remarks as he walked down Bay Street such as "There goes Abe Lincoln's spy," Consul Whiting resorted to drastic measures.

The Royal Victoria, a beehive of blockade runners and Confederate agents, was one of the places the Consul steered clear of. One evening, however, after consuming a considerable quantity of wine-opium, the Consul set out for the Royal Victoria armed with a heavy, metal-inlaid walking stick.

Brandishing the stick, Consul Whiting strode into the hotel's gentlemen's parlor and cracked and bashed at all skulls and bones within flailing distance. One of the blockade runners nearly died from a severe concussion.

Whiting's personal war against the South

"The excitement now mounted to its highest point. The reflection of the red light upon the water ran out towards us like the coil of a fiery serpent, seeming to touch the wheelhouse, and to sport with the reflection of the green light from the opposite quarter. We expected at any moment to hear the booming of the blockaders' guns."

Yard by yard, the blockade runner slid through the inky water, completely surrounded by the moving colored lights of the Federal warships. The only sound was the faint bubbling of water under the blockade runner's bow. Although barely audible on the ship's deck, it must have sounded to von Brocke and the tensely waiting crewmen like the roar of Niagara Falls.

At any moment they expected to see the flash of Federal guns and hear a cannon ball crashing through the ship's wooden sides followed by a gigantic roar that would be the last sound they ever heard.

After what seemed like a lifetime, the ship finally passed through the main part of the Northern blockade fleet. But the danger was not over. In the east the golden glow of the rising sun was turning the blockade runner into a sitting duck for any passing Federal patrol craft.

The worst fears of the crew were suddenly realized when the murky light of dawn revealed a large vessel sailing a collision course with the blockade runner.

"At a little more than three miles' distance," according to von Brocke's account, "there was a large steamer steering to the westward right across our track. Such was the position of the two vessels, that if we had continued under sail there would have been danger of a collision.

"She was certainly a cruiser and we considered it to be all up with us now.

"The men ran below to get their money out of their chests and hide it under their stockings, and I got the letters and despatches ready to consign to the deep.

The Royal Victoria Hotel as it appeared during the Civil War blockade running era. This hotel was built by the Bahamian Government in 1861 to attract sickly people to Nassau to enjoy Nassau's warm, sunny climate. During the Civil War it served as a center for blockade runners and Confederate agents. The hotel, still in use, celebrated its centennial this year.

"It was still grey dawn, and the morning was somewhat hazy, and the steamer had passed our track, and we were upon her quarter before it got clear daylight. It was evident that they had not yet noticed us, but we knew that with the clear daylight they would soon observe us, and put about to make a prize of us. How we wished for a fog or a shower of rain to obscure us!

"We got out the sweeps and pulled, but not so much to increase the distance as to head off from the cruiser and bring our two masts in line with her, and make us less easy to be observed.

"The steamer kept on her course, and as she was now nearly five miles distant, we began to think it just possible that she might pass on without observing us.

"She did, greatly to our relief . . ."

The blockade runner and her Prussian passenger ended their voyage in the safety of Charleston Harbor — von Brocke to join the doomed Confederate cause, the blockade runner's captain and crew to reap the fantastic financial reward of their daring voyage.

Taps finally blew on this colorful era as peace once again spread across the world. Nassau curled up and went back to sleep for several decades, but who knows what grey ghosts of canvas and iron and wood don't still play tag under the dark of the moon.

ST. ANDREW'S OPENING Set for September '62

ST. ANDREW'S, an Episcopal preparatory school for boys, will open in Boca Raton in September, 1962. The Rev. Hunter Wyatt-Brown Jr., executive director and headmaster of the Episcopal Foundation's new school, first of its type in Florida, will employ the philosophy of education the Episcopal Church has so successfully followed at Groton, St. Paul's, Choate, Kent, Cranbrook, and other well known institutions throughout the country.

The absence of an outstanding preparatory school in the midst of the lush Gold Coast points to an arid spot. This lack was recognized by Fr. Wyatt-Brown, a dynamic young priest, shortly after he came to South Florida in 1957. While serving as Assistant Rector at All Saints Episcopal Church in Fort Lauderdale, his attention was constantly turned to the great need for a school that would serve south Florida as well as surrounding areas.

Now, with the support of internationally prominent men, Fr. Wyatt-Brown's dream will become a reality. St. Andrew's will be erected on a 40-acre tract in University Park given to the Episcopal School Foundation by the Arvida Corporation of Boca Raton. Land for the campus is being cleared by the reserves of the Army Engineering Corps.

Officers are Gregory S. McIntosh, president; Anthony Drexel Duke, vice president; Roy P. Lund, treasurer, and Robert C. Wilkin, secretary.

The Right Rev. Henry I. Loutitt, D.D., Diocese of South Florida, is Episcopal Visitor and Trustee.

Chairman of the Building Committee is Alex Henderson, Director of Avon Products Corp., mayor of Hillsboro Beach and founder of the Hillsboro Country Day School. Mr. Henderson is organizing committee chairmen in Palm Beach, Martin, Broward and Dade Counties.

Among prominent supporters in Palm Beach is Blaine Webb, an honorary trustee. Mr. Webb was host at a luncheon recently at the Everglades Club which assembled thirty guests interested in the progress of school plans.

Honorary building committee chairman is Bruce Forbes of New York, president and publisher of Forbes magazine. He and Mrs. Forbes are frequent Winter visitors in Florida aboard their yacht, Highlander.

Like other Episcopal schools, St. Andrew's will be open to qualified boys on a non-sectarian basis. Moderate tuition will be based on family income. It is expected that scholarships will be established for deserving boys.

The Rt. Rev. Henry I. Loutitt, D.D., Bishop of South Florida, is Episcopal Visitor and Trustee of St. Andrew's.

Anthony Drexel Duke (left), vice president of St. Andrews, an Episcopal preparatory school for boys, discusses plans for the new school in Boca Raton with the Rev. Hunter Wyatt-Brown Jr., executive director and headmaster, and Alex D. Henderson, chairman of the building committee.

To implement these scholarships all students will assist with various duties at the school.

Vice President Tony Duke, founder of famed Boys' Harbor in Easthampton, Long Island, where he has turned hundreds of boys from the road to delinquency, has contributed valuable ideas which will be incorporated in the school plans.

Initial plans include a dormitory for one hundred students, with apartments for the house mother and two faculty members. The headmaster's residence will be on the campus. Architectural styling for all buildings, such as the chapel, instructors' homes, and others, will be Bahamian Colonial. George Storrs, A.I.A., a member of the Board of Trustees, is the architect.

Other trustees include William Benson, president of Weldon Plastics; J. D. Camp, chairman of the board, Broward National Bank; George English III, and William Gundlach, attorneys; Harold B. Hayes, member of the faculty of Fort Lauderdale High School; Scott L. Moore, president of the American National Bank, Fort Lauderdale; John Morrison, vice president and treasurer of Anthony Drexel Duke Realty, Inc., Fort Lauderdale; John Payne, contractor and builder; Charles Pierce, president of the First National Bank, Fort Lauderdale; and William Richards, management consultant, of Fort Lauderdale.

Among the honorary trustees are Ellsworth Augustus, president of the Boy Scouts of America; Roger Firestone, director of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company; John M. McWilliams, chairman, Executive Committee, Union Carbide Corp.; Milton N. Weir, president of Arvida Corporation of Boca Raton, and Myron H. Wilson Jr., president of the Cleveland Indians Baseball Club.

Fr. Wyatt-Brown is receiving and reviewing applications at the temporary administrative office in the Bayview Building, Fort Lauderdale.

OWNED AND OPERATED BY HOTEL CORPORATION OF AMERICA

Pure elegance . . . with a two-year/24,000-mile pledge of excellence*

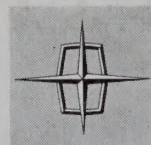

Now America has a new kind of fine car, one that provides even greater luxury and comfort in 14 inches less length. Specifically designed for today's close-packed traffic, the new Lincoln Continental is slimmer, easier to park and handle. But its greatest achievement is in standards of quality and reliability . . . standards so high that it, alone, among all American cars, can be warranted for two full years or 24,000 miles.

There are so many other pleasures to discover: Doors that open at the centerline for unusual ease of entrance. Contour-zoned seats cushioned with nearly twice the usual amount of foam rubber. The first hydraulic windshield wipers, silent and 50 percent more powerful. This country's only four-door convertible. America's largest V-8 engine—and biggest brakes.

This car is so advanced in design and durability it will keep right on revealing new virtues mile after velvet mile—but isn't that just the enduring kind of automobile you've wanted?

LINCOLN-MERCURY DIVISION Ford Motor Company

*Ford Motor Company warrants to its dealers, and its dealers, in turn, warrant to their Lincoln Continental customers as follows: That for 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first, free replacement, including related labor, will be made by dealers, of any part with a defect in workmanship or materials. Tires are not covered by the warranty: appropriate adjustments will continue to be made by the tire companies. Owners will remain responsible for normal maintenance service and routine replacement of maintenance items such as filters, spark plugs, ignition points and wiper blades.
